September inflation slows as meat, dairy prices fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation held to a moderate rate last month as consumer prices rose by only three tenths of 1 per cent, the same as in August, the government reported today.

If averaged over the entire year, the September increase would mean a 3.6 per cent annual rate of inflation, a sharp improvement over the 10 per cent annual rate recorded at the beginning of the year.

The increases in August and September were the smallest monthly hikes since last November.

Some government economists predicted that the slowing of inflation during the summer will persist through the autumn as declining farm prices continue to exert a moderating effect on retail food prices.

Wholesale farm prices have been falling since April. The decline first began showing up at the retail level in July when consumer prices rose four tenths of 1 per cent, following monthly gains averaging seventenths of 1 per cent.

Prices have increased at an annual rate of 4.2 per cent over the last three months, compared with an 8.1 per cent rate in the second quarter of the year and a 10 per cent pace during the first three months.

The improved inflation picture has been satisfying to the Carter administration which has been criticized for its economic policies because high unemployment persists and the rate of economic growth slowed over the summer.

Food prices rose only onetenth of 1 per cent last month, following an increase of threetenths of 1 per cent increase in August. Prices actually declined for pork, poultry, fresh fruits, eggs, coffee and dairy products, helping to offset increases for fresh vegetables and beef.

Non-food prices also continued to moderate last month, rising by only two tenths of 1 per cent, about the same as the three previous months. The cost of services rose five tenths of 1 per cent, the same as in August.

The Labor Department said the consumer price index stood at 184.0 in September, meaning that a market basket of goods and services selling for $100 in the 1967 base period now costs $184.

The index also showed that consumer prices in September were 6.6 per cent higher than that of a year ago.

Despite the improvement in the pace of inflation, the government said the price rise last month and fewer weekly work hours combined to chip four tenths of 1 per cent from the purchasing power of the average worker's take home pay.

BBB to discuss insulation problems

Representatives of the Better Business Bureau, Serving Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois, will meet with representatives of the Chambers of Commerce of Cape Girardeau, Poplar Bluff, Sikeston and Jackson, Thursday to discuss problems of home insulation.

The meeting will be at 10 a.m. in the offices of the Cape Girardeau Chamber of Commerce, 601 North Kingshighway, Cape Girardeau. Representatives of the utility companies serving the areas have been invited to participate in the meeting.

A press conference will be held at 11 a.m., immediately following the meeting, at which James C. Schmitt, president of the Better Business Bureau, will outline the insulation program that has been developed and will discuss the Bureau's concern over the possibility of homeowners being defrauded by unscrupulous contractors.

Under discussion at the meeting will be the sales practices of some companies that are in or are going to get into the insulation field and the matter of policing the advertising of insulation offers.

The insulation program that has been developed by the BBB with the help of the Missouri Public Service Commission, the Attorney General's Office and the Missouri Department of Natural Resources to protect the homeowners will be discussed at the meeting.

A 16-page pamphlet, "Facts On Home Insulation," designed to provide homeowners an objective look at the highly complex topic of home insulation, has been made available, upon request, to individuals.

Homeowners in Southeast Missouri having complaints should submit them to their local Chambers of Commerce, if the company and the consumer are local. If the company is not cooperative or is not local, the complaint should be submitted to the Better Business Bureau office at 915 Olive Street, St. Louis, Missouri, 63101.

The BBB will coordinate its efforts to correct the situation with the Attorney General's Office, Missouri Public Service Commission, Missouri Department of Natural Resources and the utility companies. Any complaints indicating fraud or a law violation will be referred to the Attorney General for possible action.

Psychiatric test ordered for Cooper

BLOOMFIELD — A psychiatric examination has been ordered for Jimmie Cooper, charged with two counts of kidnapping and stealing over $50 and truck theft.

Stoddard County Circuit Judge Flake McHaney made the order Wednesday after appointing an attorney to represent Cooper.

The charges against Cooper are inconnection with a series of incidents on Aug. 9 and 10 in which he allegedly kidnaped two police officers and a family of three in Dexter, eventually winding up in a stand-off with over 100 police officers.

Also Wednesday, McHaney set Nov. 17 as trial date for Ron Jaynes charged with obtaining a controlled substance by fraud. The case is a change of venue from Dunklin County.

Wage bill goes to President

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill giving nearly five million workers fatter pay checks the first of the year is now awaiting President Carter's signature.

The President is expected to sign the bill, which won final congressional approval Thursday on a House vote of 236 to 187.

The bill provides gradual increases over the next four years. The first takes effect Jan. 1, pushing the minimum from the present $2.30 an hour to $2.65.

Republicans argued the increases would be inflationary and put thousands of persons out of work. But Democrats said they would help bring lowpaid workers a living wage, although it still is not above the poverty line for a family of four.

After the initial increase on Jan. 1, the minimum goes to $2.90 an hour on Jan. 1, 1979, and to $3.10 on Jan. 1, 1980, before reaching $3.35 on Jan. 1, 1981.

The bill also would exempt more small businesses from paying the minimum wage.

Now, businesses with gross sales of $250,000 or less each year are exempt. The bill would raise the exemption for retail and service firms to $275,000 on July 1, 1978; to $325,000 by July 1, 1980, and to $362,500 by Dec. 31, 1981.

Organized labor was unable to get rid of a provision allowing employers to pay tipped workers such as bartenders or waitresses only a percentage of the minimum wage. The practice is based on the assumption that tips make up the difference.

But labor forces got the tip credit lowered, from 50 per cent at present to 45 per cent on Jan. 1, 1979, and to 40 per cent on Jan. 1, 1980.

Restaurants had argued they would be wiped out if they had to pay the full minimum wage to their employees. Restaurant unions said this was scare talk and that the tip credit victimized most waiters and waitresses.

The bill, called "absolutely the best minimum wage package we ever got," by one AFLCIO spokesman, is the first major triumph for organized labor during the Carter administration.

Presley death not drug- related

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Shelby County medical examiner said today there was no evidence that drugs made "any significant contribution" to the death of rock 'n' roll singer Elvis Presley.

Dr. Jerry Francisco, who completed the death certificate Thursday, said the 42-year-old singer's death on Aug. 16 was caused by "hypertensive heart disease with coronary artery heart disease as a contributing factor."

An autopsy performed by Dr. Eric Muirhead, chief of pathology at Baptist Hospital, has not been made public, but the Memphis Commercial-Appeal said it concluded that Presley's death was caused by 10 drugs found in his bloodstream which suppressed his central nervous system and caused him to suffocate.

Francisco said toxicology findings from the 42-year-old singer's body were considered by three pathologists and one toxicologist at the University of Tennessee Center for Health Sciences in Memphis. He said the findings were also discussed with two toxicologists elsewhere.

"It is the considered opinion of all the forensic pathologists and two of the three toxicologists that there is no evidence the medication present in the body of Elvis Prelsey caused or made any significant contribution to his death," Francisco's report said.

Francisco said all the medications present had been prescribed by Presley's doctors. He said there was an extensive search during the tests for the presence of illicit drugs in the bloodstream and none was found.

Thieves take money, tools and radio

Public Safety officers today reported four thefts, including change from a car wash, assorted tools, a truck tire and a citizens band radio.

Thieves took about $40 in quarters from two coin boxes at Dockins Car Wash on Broadway, sometime between 6 p.m. Wednesday and 6 a.m. Thursday.

A tool box and $334 worth of assorted tools were taken from a pickup truck belonging to Bobby Wrather, 126 S. New Madrid St.

The theft occurred between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday while the truck was parked at Wrather's house.

James Sindle 520 Lake St., told officers that a CB worth $100 was taken from his pickup truck between 1 p.m. Thursday and 5 a.m. today. The truck was parked at his home at the time of the theft.

Jimmy Hearner, Route Four, reported Thursday that a truck tire worth $75 was taken sometime Tuesday from his pickup truck. He did not know where the theft occurred.

3 drivers injured in accidents

Three drivers were injured in accidents today on southeast Missouri roads, the highway patrol reported.

Jimmie Dean Davis, 19, of Patterson received moderate injuries at 12:05 a.m. today when his car, eastbound on Route 34 a half mile west of Patterson, ran off the road at a high rate of speed and overturned.

Davis was taken to Wayne County Medical Center in Piedmont and later transferred to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

At 12:15 a.m. today on Route 105, one mile north of East Prairie, Ginger Nell Hayden, 26, of Charleston received minor injuries when the car she was driving north at a high rate of speed ran off the road and struck a parked car.

The Hayden woman was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

David Thomas Baird, 17, of Dexter, received minor injuries in an accident at 4:10 a.m. today on Route ZZ, six miles south of Dexter.

The highway patrol said the accident occurred when the car he was driving north ran off the road on a curve and overturned.

Baird was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital in Dexter.

Boots stolen

EAST PRAIRIE — Two pair of boots valued at $84 and $6.40 were taken in a break-in sometime Wednesday night at Bailey's Shoe Shop on Washington Drive.

375 attend career education conference

HOWARDVILLE— Over 375 educators, laymen and students participated in the Regional Educational Conference on Missouri Career Education Thursday at the New Madrid R-1 Vocational Complex.

The conference, which was one of 10 planned throughout the state, was said to be the second largest in attendance. Those attending the conference learned the value of career education and its importance within the schools.

Dr. Arthur L. Mallory, Missouri Commissioner of Education, explained Missouri career education as "a concept which may be included in all areas of elementary and secondary education and which helps all individuals to become aware of the value and dignity of work, of their own strengths and weaknesses and provides opportunities for career awareness, career exploration and preparation of career choices."

Mallory said the career education is not a separate class, but is to be used in all classes and it is not a substitute for basic education.

Career education is to be integrated into all subjects and emphasizes the basic skill areas as important tools for everyday living.

"If a student doesn't have the Three R's, there is no career".

In any sense, career education should not be confused with vocational education.

Vocational education is an option in the preparation for work that is open to selected students. It prepares students for employment in certain skilled trades. Career education prepares all students in making career decisions.

Vocational education is said to be an integral part of career education and students wanting to pursue a certain vocational field will also need to continue career education.

Following the general session explaining career education, small group discussions were held. During these discussions, school administrators said that they believe career education is now being practiced in their systems by "those teachers who are good."

Dr. Claudine Cox, a professor of economics for Southwest Missouri State University at Springfield, led the afternoon session on the cooperative effort that the school, community and businesses need to have for "career education".

Dr. Cox said career education is a way to improve the education process to make it relevant.

She believes the three R's are most important, but also the need to "teach good work habits, explain to students what free enterprise is, what market systems are and why we have them before they (the students) are thrown into it."

Dr. Cox said businesses and communities should get involved in career education by serving as resources to the classrooms, providing work study opportunities, providing information on labor markets and labor experiences.

The state is now conducting regional conferences to explain the career education system. The state also has plans to issue grants for school districts wanting to establish career education programs, and hold counselor in-service training to help teachers understand the program.

Pre-service training will be offered for students majoring in education and a career resource center, which will determine what careers are available in counties, will be established.

School districts wishing to apply for the $6,000 grant should have a career education director who is not a member of the school system; a career education committee consisting of teachers, administrators and citizens; a director to attend workshops in the summer and a commitment that the career education committee will attend workshops at a later date.

Applications by school districts should be made to Jefferson City by January, 1978.

THE SOCIAL SECURITY DILEMMA

Bad news we can take. But the new Social Security taxes proposed by the House Ways and Means Committee are so depressing we'd almost rather talk about something else.

The committee wants Congress to nearly triple the Social Security tax in the next 10 years. This year's maximum tax payment of $965.25 would jump to $2,732 by 1987. The tax would be levied on the first $39,600 of income instead of the first $16,500. The tax rate would be 6.9 percent instead of the 5.85 percent in force today.

These are shocking figures to a man or woman trying to support a family on a modest income. They're shocking to employers, who match each employe's contribution dollar for dollar. And the sad thing is that Congress may have to accept the committee's proposal — or something equally appalling—unless it can find some other way to keep the Social Security trust fund from going broke.

Without new income, the main trust fund will be exhausted in 1983. The disability trust fund could be depleted by 1979.

How, you may ask, did we get into this fix? And how can we get out of it without draining away income that should be used for buying a house, sending a son or daughter to college or building a factory?

The answer to the first question is that Congress failed to raise money to pay the costs when it extended benefits almost every two years. We've raised the benefits so fast (in fact, they're now tied to the cost of living) that the fund has begun to run dry.

To complicate matters, we have an aging population. There now are three workers for each retiree. By the year 2030 there may be only two workers for each retiree.

There are, fortunately, some ways to cut costs. We can correct a flaw in the law that overcompensates future retirees for inflation. We can tighten up the much-abused disability fund by making it harder for workers with vague injuries to retire early. And we can broaden the base by bringing federal workers into the Social Security system.

Beyond that, we could raise the retirement age. Or take money out of general revenues for retirement benefits. Or levy extra Social Security taxes on employers, as President Carter has suggested. But all of these remedies have serious side-effects that could be worse for the economy than simply whacking workers with a stiff tax increase, as the Ways and Means Committee wants to do.

It's the kind of dilemma that makes one wonder where the voices of prudence were when Congress was voting generous new benefits without pausing to reflect on the nation's ability to pay.

"I can still feel it!"

NEED KANSAS CITY TO CHICAGO HIGHWAY

At recent meeting at Nashville, Wm. M. Cox, federal highway administrator, said that highway building must be conceived for the needs of tomorrow, not those of yesterday or today.

Western Illinois and Northern Missouri highways were designed for the Model-T or horse and buggy days and met the needs of yesterday.

Early construction of modern, direct, energy-saving Kansas City to Chicago highway through this area would meet the need of today and tomorrow.

The proposed highway that would be built with revenue bonds could be completed in two to three years. It would benefit everyone especially those coming into this area when the Cannon dam project is completed, and long distance travelers and truckers between the two large cities.

There probably isn't a proposed super-highway anywhere in the nation that is more needed than this one.

Incidentally, if built, it will probably come close to or through Monroe County on the north. That is another good reason it should have local support.

ARE THEY AFRAID TO LET PEOPLE DECIDE

It is possible that a regional vote will be taken in the Meramec dam area to determine if the people favor or are against it. We're seldom for official referendums, believing that our state and national representatives should settle most questions, but in the case of Meramec, it seems the only solution to a long-standing argument.

However, environmentalists opposing the dam are against the referendum.

Are they afraid of what the people of that area will say? We'd guess they are and that if the vote is taken, it will favor building the dam.

The men going through basic Army training in Louisiana found daily conditions and practice maneuvers very strenous. On one occasion, as a large group inched their way along, flat on their bellies, through wet mud and high weeds, the air above them was raked with simulated gunfire. One man suddenly leaped to his feet and started to run.

The sergeant in charge screamed, "Cease fire!" and bawled to the private to halt. "Do you ralize those could be real bullets?" he railed.

"Maybe, sir," was the quick reply. "But," pointing a shaking finger at his former position, the private added, "that was a sure-enough real live snake!"

Inside Labor

Look Homeward, Jimmy:

White House Criticized for Idly Watching Rocketing Strike Crises

WASHINGTON -- That gracious First Lady, Rosalynn Carter, the Eleanor Roosevelt of the slipshod '70s, says her husband is doing "a great job." Such a testimonial is laudable, admirable and understandable. But she does deprive some of us insiders of our human and professional right by adding that those who criticize him "are uninformed."

Actually the President is in a buzz saw confrontation on the home front because he believes, as some of his intimates are saying, there are too many "unpostponable issues" abroad. So there are in the White House both a misunderstanding of the impact and a misreading of the significance of the current labor crises across our land.

On this front the executive mansion, with all decision-making centered in the President, isn't moving and is "hoping that we won't have to move at all."

For example, anything may happen on the waterfront in the next few hours. For more than two weeks Mr. Carter let the Atlantic and Gulf Coast dockwallopers' strike drift. With the entire New Orleans port locked tight, farmers began screaming because 1,000 grain loaded barges piled up in the lower Mississippi, according to reports.

Farm state Senators telephoned strike leader Teddy Gleason who has attempted to confine the walkout only to container vessels.

In New Orleans, because of inner union feuds, all ships were "down." And in other harbors, strikers who usually handle the container craft were distributing leaflets calling on longshoremen who have been working the traditional freighters and bulk carriers to quit work and so tie up all coasts and Great Lakes. The intricacy here is simple if one knows it.

Most of the container-slinging longshoremen are the senior dockers. They resent striking while the junior men are working. Some White House emissary with wharf-side savvy should have stepped in and attempted to pull all sides together. No one of real clout and standing on the waterfront did.

And there are the explosive coal fields. This one has been as predictable as a race between the prancing Seattle Slew and a covered wagon ox team. The dapper, newly modishly dressed United Mine Workers' Union president, Arnold Miller, though now assured of his reelection, doesn't control his international executive board, nor his hot-headed rank and file and certainly not the ski-masked stranger pickets. So Brother Miller will certainly try to deliver a big costly package to his restless, strike-happy members.

He's demanding a "substantial" wage and fringe increase. Or else. And more time off. Or else. Well, now a miner's employment cost (including Social Security, workmen's compensation and jobless insurance, etc.) runs to $110.61 a day. Atop that, Miller and company want a 30 to 40 per cent increase. That would bring a coaldigger's cost to his --or her employer to $145 or $150 daily.

Since coal is the unsteady steel industry's biggest source of energy, the increased costs could prove one of the greatest boons to Japan since the invented the sword.

This could compound the problems and confound President Carter's intergovernmental steel task force as it struggles to keep the American steel industry's head above some mighty turbulent waters. And let's not forget the three-month-old iron ore strike, also affecting the steel companies. Yet there is very little White House movement into the coal negotiations even in some private nonsmoke-filled hotel rooms as in days of yore.

And elsewhere it's real nip and tuck in the virtually unobserved aerospace industry. At this moment there are some 40,000 machinists and others striking the big aircraft companies. I'm told that it may yet spread to 100,000 workers. The International Assn. of Machinists' new president, tough, razor-tongues William "Winpi" Winpisinger, when he was a vice president told a U.S. President to go to hell. Now he's in there to really produce for the big union he took over only four months ago.

And pledging him soidarity no matter where it takes them is the officialdom of the militant United Auto Workers, also a power in the air frame and aircraft engine field. This lines up well over two million unionists. Could be quite a showdown. And showdowns, like measles, are catching. And like measles, the results could be serious, and this nation's aerospace industry could lose much of its market to the Anglo-French airbus companies.

The machinists and the auto union, both under new militant management, have a string of new fringe and non-economic demands which "involve great principle." These will certainly set collective bargaining fashions for 1978. And especially for the critical big national collective bargaining year of 1979 -- in-Teamsters, steel and auto.

Thus in this field there's a rather whimsical White House casualness.

And for closers on this report there's the big battle coming on the rails. Revision of the work rules and crew sizes in effect almost since Watt blew steam out of an engine are the issues in the battle between 60 Class One lines and 13 hard-bargaining rail unions. The kicker in this one is that Amtrak is eager to settle. It has a five-year plan it wants to put on the road. So it will break the railways' employer front (commuters and shippers take heed) and leave the private lines on the battlefront. Winpisinger is in on this one, too. And he hasn't hesitated to slow the rails in past conflicts.

So we hope the gracious and devoted Rosalynn Carter won't be too hard on those who don't believe criticizing her husband is synonymous with being "uninformed." There are those of us who believe it's good for a man to get out in the world and go sightseeing on many continents. But not when there's work at home. Not when this economy, like the Charlie Chaplin heroine, is on its back and heading for the buzz saw.

P.S. TO THE NEWS

EXPORTING U.S. TECHNOLOGY
BY PHYLLIS SCHLAFLY
Copley News Service

The Soviet appetite for Western technology is staggering. The Soviets are gobbling up U.S. plans and plants as fast as they can, and our country is cooperating by sending free technical materials and factories and machines subsidized by long-term, low-interest credits.

The Soviets, for example, persuaded the United States to sell them an astronaut's space suit for $180,000. The space suit had cost the Americans $20 million to research and develop.

In 1972 the State and Commerce departments granted an export license for the centalign-B machine, and the Soviets ultimately imported 164.

These machines are of critical importance in the manufacture of precision miniature ball bearings, which in turn are essential to the guidance mechanism used in ICBMs and MIRVs.

The Soviet Kama River truck plant, equipped with the largest American industrial computer system, will ultimately have an annual production capacity of 150,000 to 200,000 10-ton multiple-axle trucks. This is more than the capacity of the largest U.S. heavy-duty truck manufacturer.

Although the Kama plant will be capable of producing tanks, military scout cars, rocket launchers and trucks for military transport, U.S. shipments to it were approved by U.S. authorities as "nonstrategic."

Soviet bloc governments have set up more than 800 joint manufacturing ventures with Western firms in the last decade. New plants in mechanical engineering, chemicals and transportation account for two-thirds of the total. The Soviets have bought nearly 1,000 "turnkey" plants," that is, ready-to-go facilities complete with training for technical staffs.

Commercial transactions with Communist governments have been financed with Western long-term cheap credits similar to the economic aid given to underdeveloped countries. The USSR has been running an annual $6 billion trade deficit with the West.

The General Services Administration recently supplied the Soviet Embassy with an "Inventory and Summary" of some of the Pentagon's most sensitive computer locations.

The Soviet Embassy merly requested it and the GSA cheerfully complied.

As a result of an agreement between the United States and the USSR to exchange "official" publications, the United States delivers more than 10,000 government documents each year to the Lenin State Library in Moscow, and the Soviets send a similar shipment to the Library of Congress.

It doesn't take much knowledge of the two systems to know that this exchange works to the immense advantage of the Soviets. The closed Soviet system simply does not make available sensitive information that is freely published in our country.

The Soviets have been notoriously weak in self-generated technological and industrial innovation.

It is the essential but missing element in their plans for economic advance. When it comes to espionage and confidence games, however, the Soviets are innovative specialists.

Americans should realize that every exchange or commercial deal with the Soviets is, for them, an act of international politics. Their aim is not to widen the access of their people to consumer goods, but to pick our best brains, copy our techniques and con us into financing the process.

Many people believe that without the use of American and British computers, precision instruments and digital tools in the Soviet military-industrial complex, the USSR could not be the military threat it is today in terms of nuclear devices and development of high-energy lasers.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Bad Year for a Carter Farm

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON - It would have been a bad year for a small peanut farmer named Jimmy Carter if he hadn't given up farming last January.

He placed his farm in a blind trust so he could devote himself to more important work at the White House. One spread – 200 acres of rolling, red earth outside Plains, Ga. – was entrusted to his overseer, Leonard Wright, an amiable black man with a toothy, gold-flecked grin.

He used to split the profits with Carter, 50-50. Carter furnished the land, fertilizer and seed. Wright provided the labor and equipment. In a good year, he could clear over $15,000.

Now that Carter has given up farming, Wright will keep the full profits from the 200 acres. But he must also lay out the money for the seeds, pesticides and fertilizers.

Unfortunately, prices have rocketed. Worse, a withering drought has burned his corn and peanuts. He, therefore, will lose money on the Carter farm and will have to borrow from the bank to keep the farm going. He may even be forced to apply for a farm disaster loan from the federal government.

Corn was selling for $2.75 a bushel when Wright was deciding what to plant. So he invested heavily in a corn crop and he bought the best liquid nitrogen fertilizer to insure a good yield.

But the summer drought scorched his fields and stunted the growth. Now at harvest time, the corn should be high as an elephant's eye, but it scarcely comes up to Wright's knees. Not only is the crop poor, but the price has dropped to $1.45 a bushel. The peanut yield has also suffered from the dry weather.

Yet Wright's production costs were higher than ever. The petrochemical companies, for example, keep raising the price of fertilizers. It now costs between $25,000 and $30,000 to finance the year's crop.

Leonard Wright doesn't flash his gold-flecked Jimmy Carter smile as often as he used to do. "The main thing the government needs to do," he told our associate Hal Bernton, "is put some kind of higher price on corn and somehow lower fertilizer rates. A year like this really hurts us. Yet the farms are supposed to take care of the whole world. Everything people eat comes off of the farms."

The Jimmy Carter farm isn't the only small spread that has wound up in the hole. The small farmers are the traditional guardians of American values. Yet last year, 26,000 family farmers were driven off their land by the same deadly combination of soaring expenses and plunging grain prices. Thousands more will abandon their farms this year.

Wheat prices, for example, have plunged from $4.23 a bushel in 1974 to less than $2 a bushel. Yet the price of bread has soared during the same period from 47 cents to 60 cents a loaf.

Obviously, the processors who stand between the farmers and the consumers are squeezing their full profit out of wheat. It's the farmers who take the loss; yet they toil the hardest to make America the best-fed nation in history.

Depression-born laws to protect the small farmers are hopelessly outdated and family farmers are unable to compete against agricultural giants. We have reported in past columns how the big speculators are gobbling up ever greater bites of the countryside and running up the value of prime farm land in the Midwest.

The small farmers, meanwhile, remain the nation's most efficient food producers. Tenneco, the natural gas combine, discovered this when the company tried to cultivate some 70,000 acres of California farmland. The project was abandoned, with this postmortem: "From the standpoint of efficiency, there is no effective substitute for the small to medium grower who lives on or near his farmland."

But the wealthy corporate investors don't need to make a profit each year. They can merely write off the loss on their income tax forms. Then after the land has appreciated in value, they can sell it for a later profit.

President Carter had a chance to sell his federal peanut acreage allotment to a neighboring farmer for a huge profit. But this would have taken the money crop off the farm, leaving no livelihood for Leonard Wright and his family.

When Jimmy Carter was a boy, he worked side by side in the cotton fields with Leonard Wright's wife, Mary. This may have been on Carter's mind when he turned down the lucrative offer and entrusted his farm to Wright. Neither of them expected it to lose money while Carter was away in the White House.

Irish Rights: Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, the big, beloved boss of the House, is as Irish as anyone who ever kissed the Blarney Stone. But he quietly quashed a congressional hearing on alleged British outrages against the Irish.

It all happened in the privacy of the House backrooms. Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., compiled a study of alleged British human rights offenses. He sent the staff study to Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., who heads a House subcommittee that deals with human rights.

Fraser began drawing up a list of categories of witnesses that the subcommittee should call. Hearings were tentatively scheduled for this month. Then the speaker spoke to him.

O'Neill cautioned Fraser that his hearings could upset some informal peace initiatives by the Carter administration. To dig up atrocities, the speaker pleaded, would only inflame the already emotional issue. It would be an "inappropriate" time to stir up trouble over Irish rights, he said.

Impressed by this appeal from an Irish-American, Fraser agreed privately to call off the hearings. He told us, however, that he is considering hearings for the next session.

THE SOCIAL SECURITY DILEMMA

Bad news we can take. But the new Social Security taxes proposed by the House Ways and Means Committee are so depressing we'd almost rather talk about something else.

The committee wants Congress to nearly triple the Social Security tax in the next 10 years. This year's maximum tax payment of $965.25 would jump to $2,732 by 1987. The tax would be levied on the first $39,900 of income instead of the first $16,500. The tax rate would be 6.9 percent instead of the 5.85 percent in force today.

These are shocking figures to a man or woman trying to support a family on a modest income. They're shocking to employers, who match each employe's contribution dollar for dollar. And the sad thing is that Congress may have to accept the committee's proposal — or something equally appalling—unless it can find some other way to keep the Social Security trust fund from going broke.

Without new income, the main trust fund will be exhausted in 1983. The disability trust fund could be depleted by 1979.

How, you may ask, did we get into this fix? And how can we get out of it without draining away income that should be used for buying a house, sending a son or daughter to college or building a factory?

The answer to the first question is that Congress failed to raise money to pay the costs when it extended benefits almost every two years. We've raised the benefits so fast (in fact, they're now tied to the cost of living) that the fund has begun to run dry.

To complicate matters, we have an aging population. There now are three workers for each retiree. By the year 2030 there may be only two workers for each retiree.

There are, fortunately, some ways to cut costs. We can correct a flaw in the law that overcompensates future retirees for inflation. We can tighten up the much-abused disability fund by making it harder for workers with vague injuries to retire early. And we can broaden the base by bringing federal workers into the Social Security system.

Beyond that, we could raise the retirement age. Or take money out of general revenues for retirement benefits. Or levy extra Social Security taxes on employers, as President Carter has suggested. But all of these remedies have serious side-effects that could be worse for the economy than simply whacking workers with a stiff tax increase, as the Ways and Means Committee wants to do.

It's the kind of dilemma that makes one wonder where the voices of prudence were when Congress was voting generous new benefits without pausing to reflect on the nation's ability to pay.

ARE THEY AFRAID TO LET PEOPLE DECIDE

It is possible that a regional vote will be taken in the Meramec dam area to determine if the people favor or are against it. We're seldom for official referendums, believing that our state and national representatives should settle most questions, but in the case of Meramec, it seems the only solution to a long-standing argument.

However, environmentalists opposing the dam are against the referendum.

Are they afraid of what the people of that area will say? We'd guess they are and that if the vote is taken, it will favor building the dam.

XXX

The men going through basic Army training in Louisiana found daily conditions and practice maneuvers very strenous. On one occasion, as a large group inched their way along, flat on their bellies, through wet mud and high weeds, the air above them was raked with simulated gunfire. One man suddenly leaped to his feet and started to run.

The sergeant in charge screamed, "Cease fire!" and bawled to the private to halt. "Do you ralize those could be real bullets?" he railed.

"Maybe, sir," was the quick reply. "But," pointing a shaking finger at his former position, the private added, "that was a sure-enough real live snake!"

White House Criticized for Idly

Watching Rocketing Strike Crises

WASHINGTON -- That gracious First Lady, Rosalynn Carter, the Eleanor Roosevelt of the slipshod '70s, says her husband is doing "a great job." Such a testimonial is laudable, admirable and understandable. But she does deprive some of us insiders of our human and professional right by adding that those who criticize him "are uninformed."

Actually the President is in a buzz saw confrontation on the home front because he believes, as some of his intimates are saying, there are too many "unpostponable issues" abroad. So there are in the White House both a misunderstanding of the impact and a misreading of the significance of the current labor crises across our land.

On this front the executive mansion, with all decision-making centered in the President, isn't moving and is "hoping that we won't have to move at all."

For example, anything may happen on the waterfront in the next few hours. For more than two weeks Mr. Carter let the Atlantic and Gulf Coast dockwallopers' strike drift. With the entire New Orleans port locked tight, farmers began screaming because 1,000 grain loaded barges piled up in the lower Mississippi, according to reports.

Farm state Senators telephoned strike leader Teddy Gleason who has attempted to confine the walkout only to container vessels.

In New Orleans, because of inner union feuds, all ships were "down." And in other harbors, strikers who usually handle the container craft were distributing leaflets calling on longshoremen who have been working the traditional freighters and bulk carriers to quit work and so tie up all coasts and Great Lakes. The intricacy here is simple if one knows it.

Most of the container-slinging longshoremen are the senior dockers. They resent striking while the junior men are working. Some White House emissary with wharf-side savvy should have stepped in and attempted to pull all sides together. No one of real clout and standing on the waterfront did.

And there are the explosive coal fields. This one has been as predictable as a race between the prancing Seattle Slew and a covered wagon ox team. The dapper, newly modishly dressed United Mine Workers' Union president, Arnold Miller, though now assured of his reelection, doesn't control his international executive board, nor his hot-headed rank and file and certainly not the ski-masked stranger pickets. So Brother Miller will certainly try to deliver a big costly package to his restless, strike-happy members.

He's demanding a "substantial" wage and fringe increase. Or else. And more time off. Or else. Well, now a miner's employment cost (including Social Security, workmen's compensation and jobless insurance, etc.) runs to $110.61 a day. Atop that, Miller and company want a 30 to 40 per cent increase. That would bring a coaldigger's cost to his --or her employer to $145 or $150 daily.

Since coal is the unsteady steel industry's biggest source of energy, the increased costs could prove one of the greatest boons to Japan since the invented the sword.

This could compound the problems and confound President Carter's intergovernmental steel task force as it struggles to keep the American steel industry's head above some mighty turbulent waters. And let's not forget the three-month-old iron ore strike, also affecting the steel companies. Yet there is very little White House movement into the coal negotiations even in some private nonsmoke-filled hotel rooms as in days of yore.

And elsewhere it's real nip and tuck in the virtually unobserved aerospace industry. At this moment there are some 40,000 machinists and others striking the big aircraft companies. I'm told that it may yet spread to 100,000 workers. The International Assn. of Machinists' new president, tough, razor-tongues William "Winpi" Winpisinger, when he was a vice president told a U.S. President to go to hell. Now he's in there to really produce for the big union he took over only four months ago.

And pledging him solidarity no matter where it takes them is the officialdom of the militant United Auto Workers, also a power in the air frame and aircraft engine field. This lines up well over two million unionists. Could be quite a showdown. And showdowns, like measles, are catching. And like measles, the results could be serious, and this nation's aerospace industry could lose much of its market to the Anglo-French airbus companies.

The machinists and the auto union, both under new militant management, have a string of new fringe and non-economic demands which "involve great principle." These will certainly set collective bargaining fashions for 1978. And especially for the critical big national collective bargaining year of 1979 -- in-Teamsters, steel and auto.

Thus in this field there's a rather whimsical White House casualness.

And for closers on this report there's the big battle coming on the rails. Revision of the work rules and crew sizes in effect almost since Watt blew steam out of an engine are the issues in the battle between 60 Class One lines and 13 hard-bargaining rail unions. The kicker in this one is that Amtrak is eager to settle. It has a five-year plan it wants to put on the road. So it will break the railways' employer front (commuters and shippers take heed) and leave the private lines on the battlefront. Winpisinger is in on this one, too. And he hasn't hesitated to slow the rails in past conflicts.

So we hope the gracious and devoted Rosalynn Carter won't be too hard on those who don't believe criticizing her husband is synonymous with being "uninformed." There are those of us who believe it's good for a man to get out in the world and go sightseeing on many continents. But not when there's work at home. Not when this economy, like the Charlie Chaplin heroine, is on its back and heading for the buzz saw.

P.S. TO THE NEWS

EXPORTING U.S. TECHNOLOGY
BY PHYLLIS SCHLAFLY
Copley News Service

The Soviet appetite for Western technology is staggering The Soviets are gobbling up U.S. plans and plants as fast as they can, and our country is cooperating by sending free technical materials and factories and machines subsidized by long-term, low-interest credits.

The Soviets, for example, persuaded the United States to sell them an astronaut's space suit for $180,000 The space suit had cost the Americans $20 million to research and develop.

In 1972 the State and Commerce departments granted an export license for the centalign-B machine, and the Soviets ultimately imported 164.

These machines are of critical importance in the manufacture of precision miniature ball bearings, which in turn are essential to the guidance mechanism used in ICBMs and MIRVs.

The Soviet Kama River truck plant, equipped with the largest American industrial computer system, will ultimately have an annual production capacity of 150,000 to 200,000 10-ton multiple-axle trucks. This is more than the capacity of the largest U.S. heavy-duty truck manufacturer.

Although the Kama plant will be capable of producing tanks, military scout cars, rocket launchers and trucks for military transport, U.S. shipments to it were approved by U.S. authorities as "nonstrategic."

Soviet bloc governments have set up more than 800 joint manufacturing ventures with Western firms in the last decade. New plants in me chanical engineering, chemicals and transportation account for two-thirds of the total. The Soviets have bought nearly 1,000 "turnkey" plants," that is, ready-to-go facilities complete with training for technical staffs.

Commercial transactions with Communist governments have been financed with Western long-term cheap credits similar to the economic aid given to underdeveloped countries. The USSR has been running an annual $6 billion trade deficit with the West.

The General Services Administration recently supplied the Soviet Embassy with an "Inventory and Summary" of some of the Pentagon's most sensitive computer locations.

The Soviet Embassy merly requested it and the GSA cheerfully complied.

As a result of an agreement between the United States and the USSR to exchange "official" publications, the United States delivers more than 10,000 government documents each year to the Lenin State Library in Moscow, and the Soviets send a similar shipment to the Library of Congress.

It doesn't take much knowledge of the two systems to know that this exchange works to the immense advantage of the Soviets. The closed Soviet system simply does not make available sensitive information that is freely published in our country.

The Soviets have been notoriously weak in self-generated technological and industrial innovation.

It is the essential but missing element in their plans for economic advance. When it comes to espionage and confidence games, however, the Soviets are innovative specialists.

Americans should realize that every exchange or commercial deal with the Soviets is, for them, an act of international politics. Their aim is not to widen the access of their people to consumer goods, but to pick our best brains, copy our techniques and con us into financing the process.

Many people believe that without the use of American and British computers, precision instruments and digital tools in the Soviet military-industrial complex, the USSR could not be the military threat it is today in terms of nuclear devices and development of high-energy lasers.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Bad Year for a Carter Farm

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON - It would have been a bad year for a small peanut farmer named Jimmy Carter if he hadn't given up farming last January.

He placed his farm in a blind trust so he could devote himself to more important work at the White House. One spread – 200 acres of rolling, red earth outside Plains, Ga. – was entrusted to his overseer, Leonard Wright, an amiable black man with a toothy, gold-flecked grin.

He used to split the profits with Carter, 50-50. Carter furnished the land, fertilizer and seed. Wright provided the labor and equipment. In a good year, he could clear over $15,000.

Now that Carter has given up farming, Wright will keep the full profits from the 200 acres. But he must also lay out the money for the seeds, pesticides and fertilizers.

Unfortunately, prices have rocketed. Worse, a withering drought has burned his corn and peanuts. He, therefore, will lose money on the Carter farm and will have to borrow from the bank to keep the farm going. He may even be forced to apply for a farm disaster loan from the federal government.

Corn was selling for $2.75 a bushel when Wright was deciding what to plant. So he invested heavily in a corn crop and he bought the best liquid nitrogen fertilizer to insure a good yield.

But the summer drought scorched his fields and stunted the growth. Now at harvest time, the corn should be high as an elephant's eye, but it scarcely comes up to Wright's knees. Not only is the crop poor, but the price has dropped to $1.45 a bushel. The peanut yield has also suffered from the dry weather.

Yet Wright's production costs were higher than ever. The petrochemical companies, for example, keep raising the price of fertilizers. It now costs between $25,000 and $30,000 to finance the year's crop.

Leonard Wright doesn't flash his gold-flecked Jimmy Carter smile as often as he used to do. "The main thing the government needs to do," he told our associate Hal Bernton, "is put some kind of higher price on corn and somehow lower fertilizer rates. A year like this really hurts us. Yet the farms are supposed to take care of the whole world. Everything people eat comes off of the farms."

The Jimmy Carter farm isn't the only small spread that has wound up in the hole. The small farmers are the traditional guardians of American values. Yet last year, 26,000 family farmers were driven off their land by the same deadly combination of soaring expenses and plunging grain prices. Thousands more will abandon their farms this year.

Wheat prices, for example, have plunged from $4.23 a bushel in 1974 to less than $2 a bushel. Yet the price of bread has soared during the same period from 47 cents to 60 cents a loaf.

Obviously, the processors who stand between the farmers and the consumers are squeezing their full profit out of wheat. It's the farmers who take the loss; yet they toil the hardest to make America the best-fed nation in history.

Depression-born laws to protect the small farmers are hopelessly outdated and family farmers are unable to compete against agricultural giants. We have reported in past columns how the big speculators are gobbling up ever greater bites of the countryside and running up the value of prime farm land in the Midwest.

The small farmers, meanwhile, remain the nation's most efficient food producers. Tenneco, the natural gas combine, discovered this when the company tried to cultivate some 70,000 acres of California farmland. The project was abandoned, with this postmortem: 'From the standpoint of efficiency, there is no effective substitute for the small to medium grower who lives on or near his farmland."

But the wealthy corporate investors don't need to make a profit each year. They can merely write off the loss on their income tax forms. Then after the land has appreciated in value, they can sell it for a later profit.

President Carter had a chance to sell his federal peanut acreage allotment to a neighboring farmer for a huge profit. But this would have taken the money crop off the farm, leaving no livelihood for Leonard Wright and his family.

When Jimmy Carter was a boy, he worked side by side in the cotton fields with Leonard Wright's wife, Mary. This may have been on Carter's mind when he turned down the lucrative offer and entrusted his farm to Wright. Neither of them expected it to lose money while Carter was away in the White House.

Irish Rights: Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, the big, beloved boss of the House, is as Irish as anyone who ever kissed the Blarney Stone. But he quietly quashed a congressional hearing on alleged British outrages against the Irish.

It all happened in the privacy of the House backrooms. Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., compiled a study of alleged British human rights offenses. He sent the staff study to Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., who heads a House subcommittee that deals with human rights.

Fraser began drawing up a list of categories of witnesses that the subcommittee should call. Hearings were tentatively scheduled for this month. Then the speaker spoke to him.

O'Neill cautioned Fraser that his hearings could upset some informal peace initiatives by the Carter administration. To dig up atrocities, the speaker pleaded, would only inflame the already emotional issue. It would be an "inappropriate" time to stir up trouble over Irish rights, he said.

Impressed by this appeal from an Irish-American, Fraser agreed privately to call off the hearings. He told us, however, that he is considering hearings for the next session.

Hijacking ends with suicide

ATLANTA (AP) — There was no scuffle, just a muffled shotgun blast ending the life of a young Nebraska hijacker who, his lawyer felt, simply "made a value judgment as to spending several years in prison or taking his own life." Thomas Michael Hannan, 29, had released 13 hostages but was still talking to his lawyer aboard the Frontier Airlines Boeing 737 he had commandeered 14 hours earlier in Grand Island, Neb., when he "just sat down and pulled the trigger," said James Dunn of the FBI.

Helicopter crash kills 10

MANILA (AP) — A U.S. Marine helicopter crashed and burned today on the island of Mindoro, killing at least 10 of the 39 persons aboard, American military spokesmen said. The CH53 helicopter was carrying 34 passengers and five crew members, they said. The cause of the crash is under investigation.

More interested in security

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister John Vorster says he is more interested in the security of South Africa than in the views of the United States toward his government's latest crackdown on organizations and individuals opposed to apartheid. He said a State Department announcement that the mass arrests and banning of black organizations and newspapers could harm relations between the United States and South Africa "is none of my business."

Hijack commando units listed

LONDON (AP) — Besides the United States, West Germany and Israel, at least 10 other countries have highly skilled commando units trained to rescue hijack hostages, an Associated Press survey shows. They are Britain, France, Switzerland, Belgium, Denmark, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, Austria and Indonesia. The British colony of Hong Kong also has a commando group.

Carter starts across country

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter begins a two-day transcontinental trip today which will cover five states all of which he lost during last year's election. Carter is counting on live regional broadcasts to help him get his message across to the voters.

Peace talk doubts expressed

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were doubts today that the Geneva Middle East peace talks can be reconvened by Christms as hoped by the Carter administration. Syria joined Egypt on Thursday in insisting that the Palestine Liberation Organization have a role in the Geneva talks.

Crash kills 3 in rock band

McCOMB, Miss. (AP) — Six persons, including three members of the Lynyrd Skynyrd rock band, were killed when their twin-engine airplane crashed while attempting an emergency landing.

Twenty others were injured in the Thursday night crash.

The propeller-driven Convair 240 skidded across tree tops for about 100 yards, then slammed nose first into a swampy area and split open about eight miles short of the McComb airport after reporting it was "having fuel trouble or was running low on fuel," an air traffic controller reported.

The dead were lead singer Ronnie Van Zant; guitarist Steve Gaines; his sister, vocalist Cassie Gaines; pilot Walter Wiley McCreary; co-pilot William John Gray, and Dean Kilpatrick, assistant road manager for the group, officials said.

Six other members of the band were injured. Others injured included members of the group's road crew and a television cameraman, officials of Southwest Mississippi Medical Center said.

St. Louis rolls out red carpet

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Delight and disappointment will mark Prince Charles' five-hour sightseeing stop in this old river city, founded by the French long before his ancestor, George III, lost the colonies.

The prince will get the red carpet treatment when he arrives today. The problem, it seems, is that not everyone will be able to stand on it.

"There are people upset about just about every detail of this whole trip," said a spokesman for the British consul. "You can't please all of the people all of the time. It's hard enough pleasing some of the people some of the time."

The 28-year-old heir to the British throne is on a 12-day tour of the United States.

One of the highlights of his visit will be a "stag" luncheon at the Noonday club. About 50 guests, all carefully selected by the British consul, will toast the prince's health. They'll have three things in common with him; all will be upper class, male, and white.

The luncheon has drawn fire from civil rights groups and women's libbers. Kay Gabbert, a member of the Missouri ERA Coalition's steering committee called it, "the most medieval display of male chauvinism I can imagine. Even Guineviere sat at the Round Table."

Prince Charles arrives in the city at 9 a.m. His itinerary includes a stop at the Gateway Arch, the Old Courthouse, and, lastly, a special visit to the McDonnell Douglas Corp. Then he's off for Atlanta.

Only one part of the trip worries St. Louis police, who will help coordinate security with the British government and the State Department. That's a 15minute "walkabout" downtown, especially planned to give sightseers a chance to see walking royalty.

Fuel bill aid available

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo (AP) — Some $4 million in federal funds will be going out this week to more than 34,000 Missourians to help them with their high fuel bills last winter, Gov. Joseph Teasdale said Thursday.

The money will be available through the federal government's Crisis Intervention Program. It would be sent to those qualifying for the payments to cover part of the increased costs of their home heating bills last winter.

The payments are made on a formula based on the increased cost of heating a home last winter, as compared to the 1975-76 winter.

Most of the payments would be made directly to fuel suppliers to be credited to the accounts of the people who were able to qualify under the Crisis Intervention Program, Teasdale said.

Payments would be made only to the 831 companies who signed agreements with the state Department of Social Services and who provide natural gas, electricity, fuel oil or liquified propane for home heating.

In addition, checks are being mailed directly to about 3,050 people who use wood or coal as their main heating fuel or who could not be helped by payment directly to their suppliers, the governor said.

Today's News Briefs

Hijacking ends with suicide

ATLANTA (AP) — There was no scuffle, just a muffled shotgun blast ending the life of a young Nebraska hijacker who, his lawyer felt, simply "made a value judgment as to spending several years in prison or taking his own life." Thomas Michael Hannan, 29, had released 13 hostages but was still talking to his lawyer aboard the Frontier Airlines Boeing 737 he had commandeered 14 hours earlier in Grand Island, Neb., when he "just sat down and pulled the trigger," said James Dunn of the FBI.

Helicopter crash kills 10

MANILA (AP) — A U.S. Marine helicopter crashed and burned today on the island of Mindoro, killing at least 10 of the 39 persons aboard, American military spokesmen said. The CH53 helicopter was carrying 34 passengers and five crew members, they said. The cause of the crash is under investigation.

More interested in security

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister John Vorster says he is more interested in the security of South Africa than in the views of the United States toward his government's latest crackdown on organizations and individuals opposed to apartheid. He said a State Department announcement that the mass arrests and banning of black organizations and newspapers could harm relations between the United States and South Africa "is none of my business."

Hijack commando units listed

LONDON (AP) — Besides the United States, West Germany and Israel, at least 10 other countries have highly skilled commando units trained to rescue hijack hostages, an Associated Press survey shows. They are Britain, France, Switzerland, Belgium, Denmark, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, Austria and Indonesia. The British colony of Hong Kong also has a commando group.

Carter starts across country

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter begins a two-day transcontinental trip today which will cover five states all of which he lost during last year's election. Carter is counting on live regional broadcasts to help him get his message across to the voters.

Peace talk doubts expressed

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were doubts today that the Geneva Middle East peace talks can be reconvened by Christms as hoped by the Carter administration. Syria joined Egypt on Thursday in insisting that the Palestine Liberation Organization have a role in the Geneva talks.

Crash kills 3 in rock band

McCOMB, Miss. (AP) — Six persons, including three members of the Lynyrd Skynyrd rock band, were killed when their twin-engine airplane crashed while attempting an emergency landing.

Twenty others were injured in the Thursday night crash.

The propeller-driven Convair 240 skidded across tree tops for about 100 yards, then slammed nose first into a swampy area and split open about eight miles short of the McComb airport after reporting it was "having fuel trouble or was running low on fuel," an air traffic controller reported.

The dead were lead singer Ronnie Van Zant; guitarist Steve Gaines; his sister, vocalist Cassie Gaines; pilot Walter Wiley McCreary; co-pilot William John Gray, and Dean Kilpatrick, assistant road manager for the group, officials said.

Six other members of the band were injured. Others injured included members of the group's road crew and a television cameraman, officials of Southwest Mississippi Medical Center said.

St. Louis rolls out red carpet

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Delight and disappointment will mark Prince Charles' five-hour sightseeing stop in this old river city, founded by the French long before his ancestor, George III, lost the colonies.

The prince will get the red carpet treatment when he arrives today. The problem, it seems, is that not everyone will be able to stand on it.

"There are people upset about just about every detail of this whole trip," said a spokesman for the British consul. "You can't please all of the people all of the time. It's hard enough pleasing some of the people some of the time."

The 28-year-old heir to the British throne is on a 12-day tour of the United States.

One of the highlights of his visit will be a "stag" luncheon at the Noonday club. About 50 guests, all carefully selected by the British consul, will toast the prince's health. They'll have three things in common with him; all will be upper class, male, and white.

The luncheon has drawn fire from civil rights groups and women's libbers. Kay Gabbert, a member of the Missouri ERA Coalition's steering committee called it, "the most medieval display of male chauvinism I can imagine. Even Guineviere sat at the Round Table."

Prince Charles arrives in the city at 9 a.m. His itinerary includes a stop at the Gateway Arch, the Old Courthouse, and, lastly, a special visit to the McDonnell Douglas Corp. Then he's off for Atlanta.

Only one part of the trip worries St. Louis police, who will help coordinate security with the British government and the State Department. That's a 15minute "walkabout" downtown, especially planned to give sightseers a chance to see walking royalty.

Fuel bill aid available

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo (AP) — Some $4 million in federal funds will be going out this week to more than 34,000 Missourians to help them with their high fuel bills last winter, Gov. Joseph Teasdale said Thursday.

The money will be available through the federal government's Crisis Intervention Program. It would be sent to those qualifying for the payments to cover part of the increased costs of their home heating bills last winter.

The payments are made on a formula based on the increased cost of heating a home last winter, as compared to the 1975-76 winter.

Most of the payments would be made directly to fuel suppliers to be credited to the accounts of the people who were able to qualify under the Crisis Intervention Program, Teasdale said.

Payments would be made only to the 831 companies who signed agreements with the state Department of Social Services and who provide natural gas, electricity, fuel oil or liquified propane for home heating.

In addition, checks are being mailed directly to about 3,050 people who use wood or coal as their main heating fuel or who could not be helped by payment directly to their suppliers, the governor said.

State delegation at women's conference may be out of step

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri delegation to the International Women's Year Conference next month in Houston will be so out of step with the majority of those at the meeting it will be ineffective.

That is the assessment of Mrs. Jean Berg of St. Charles, chairman of the Missouri Coordinating Committee on the Observance of International Women's Year.

However, Mrs. Ann O'Donnell, of St. Louis, chairman of the delegation, disagrees.

In fact, she said she feels the 30-member delegation will be there speaking for the "silent majority" of women in Missouri.

The two women have been exchanging comments since the state convention in June elected a delegation of 30 women opposed to abortion and mostly against ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Missouri was the first state to elect an anti-abortion, anti-ERA delegation, and elections in other states have brought the number nationwide to about 400 delegates, Mrs. O'Donnell said.

However, the International Women's Year National Commission recently named about 400 delegates at-large. Mrs. O'Donnell said that action would nullify the victories of the anti-abortion factions, since the deleagtes selected by the commission probably would mostly favor liberalized abortion laws.

International Women's Year was set up to assess the status and concerns of women and examine barriers to their equal participation in society.

About 1,500 delegates from across the nation are scheduled to gather in Houston Nov. 18-21 to attend the women's rights conference.

Mrs. Berg said most of the delegates probably would be committed to a broad range of women's issues and would be opposed to the anti-abortion, anti-ERA stance taken by the Missouri delegation.

"To an extent they will have separated themselves from the mainstream of things," she said. "And I do not beleive the Missouri delgation represents the women of Missouri. I think it looks foolish."

Mrs. Berg said the International Women's Year was meant to focus on a wide range of women's problems and concerns.

"But the Missouri delegation now has a hangup on only two issues," she said.

Mrs. O'Donnell said she felt the organizers of International Women's Year did not represent the mainstream of women across the country, and especially in Missouri.

Ann Landers

Foodaholic turns to OA system

Dear "I Need A Miracle": You told Ann Landers you are killing yourself with food. Well, let me tell, you dear -- you don't have to die. Listen to my story: I am 40 years old and weighed 203 lbs. I use the past tense "weighed" because I have been on the program of Overeaters Anonymous for the past 100 days and as of this morning I weigh 160 lbs.

You have admitted that you are addicted to food. This is the first step toward recovery. You also refer to yourself as a foodaholic which is exactly what I am, and so is every other OAer.

For the sake of your sanity and your life, please get in touch with an Overeaters Anonymous group in your area. We are all over the country and I'm sure you'll be able to find a meeting place you can attend. There are meetings going on during the day as well as the evenings. You'll meet people who have gone through experiences similar to what you are going through now.

The fantastic thing about Overeaters Anonymous is the love and encouragement you'll find there. You'll meet people who really care about you. Look in the phone book under Overeaters Anonymous and find out where the nearest meeting place is and when the next meeting takes place. Buy Family Circle magazine today and read the candid and provocative article by Ann Landers -- "How Much Do We Owe Our Children?"

Dear Ann Landers: In 1975 you advised a lonesome girl who had trouble meeting nice men to take a few adult education courses at the local university and join organizations so she could meet people whose interests were similar to hers. Then you added, "church groups have a lot to offer."

My 28-year-old daughter, Tillie, joined a church group on your say and that's where she met Albert. She devoted her whole life to him for 22 months. We had him to dinner twice a week and they even took a little trip together.

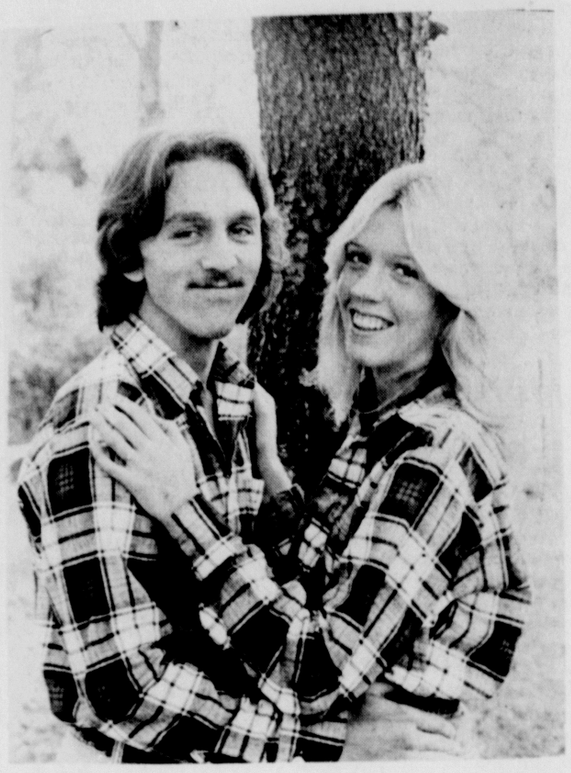

Last week, Albert's wife showed up at our door with three little kids. She asked Tillie to please leave her husband alone. We almost died of the shock. He seemed so respectable and decent.

So please, Ann, don't recommend church groups as a place to meet nice men. It's a perfect front for scoundrels. -- Columbus, Ohio

Dear Columbus: Churches have rats, too, but that doesn't mean your daughter should go out with them. There's no substitute for common sense. A woman who sees a man for 22 months and doesn't pick up a single clue that he is married and has three kids is not very bright.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex -- Ten Ways to Cool It."

State delegation at women's conference may be out of step

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri delegation to the International Women's Year Conference next month in Houston will be so out of step with the majority of those at the meeting it will be ineffective.

That is the assessment of Mrs. Jean Berg of St. Charles, chairman of the Missouri Coordinating Committee on the Observance of International Women's Year.

However, Mrs. Ann O'Donnell, of St. Louis, chairman of the delegation, disagrees.

In fact, she said she feels the 30-member delegation will be there speaking for the "silent majority" of women in Missouri.

The two women have been exchanging comments since the state convention in June elected a delegation of 30 women opposed to abortion and mostly against ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Missouri was the first state to elect an anti-abortion, anti-ERA delegation, and elections in other states have brought the number nationwide to about 400 delegates, Mrs. O'Donnell said.

However, the International Women's Year National Commission recently named about 400 delegates at-large. Mrs. O'Donnell said that action would nullify the victories of the anti-abortion factions, since the deleagtes selected by the commission probably would mostly favor liberalized abortion laws.

International Women's Year was set up to assess the status and concerns of women and examine barriers to their equal participation in society.

About 1,500 delegates from across the nation are scheduled to gather in Houston Nov. 18-21 to attend the women's rights conference.

Mrs. Berg said most of the delegates probably would be committed to a broad range of women's issues and would be opposed to the anti-abortion, anti-ERA stance taken by the Missouri delegation.

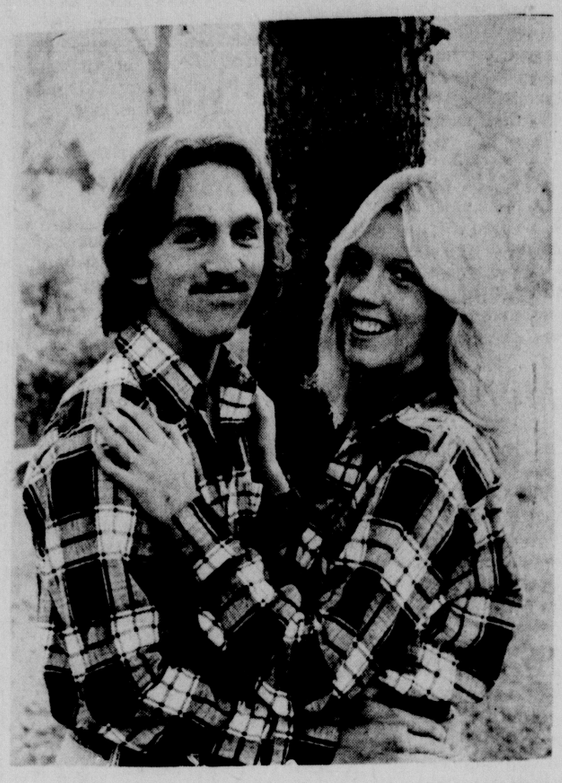

"To an extent they will have separated themselves from the mainstream of things," she said. "And I do not beleive the Missouri delgation represents the women of Missouri. I think it looks foolish."

Mrs. Berg said the International Women's Year was meant to focus on a wide range of women's problems and concerns.

"But the Missouri delegation now has a hangup on only two issues," she said.

Mrs. O'Donnell said she felt the organizers of International Women's Year did not represent the mainstream of women across the country, and especially in Missouri.

Foodaholic turns to OA system

Dear "I Need A Miracle": You told Ann Landers you are killing yourself with food. Well, let me tell, you dear -- you don't have to die. Listen to my story: I am 40 years old and weighed 203 lbs. I use the past tense "weighed" because I have been on the program of Overeaters Anonymous for the past 100 days and as of this morning I weigh 160 lbs.

You have admitted that you are addicted to food. This is the first step toward recovery. You also refer to yourself as a foodaholic which is exactly what I am, and so is every other OAer.

For the sake of your sanity and your life, please get in touch with an Overeaters Anonymous group in your area. We are all over the country and I'm sure you'll be able to find a meeting place you can attend. There are meetings going on during the day as well as the evenings. You'll meet people who have gone through experiences similar to what you are going through now.

The fantastic thing about Overeaters Anonymous is the love and encouragement you'll find there. You'll meet people who really care about you. Look in the phone book under Overeaters Anonymous and find out where the nearest meeting place is and when the next meeting takes place. I'm not trying to push you, but you sound as though you are ready to accept what we have to offer.

Please give us a chance to help you. It's like being reborn. I know you'll make it with OA because I am making it right now and it's the only thing that has worked. I tried every kooky diet and every group under the sun. I am now -- A Life Saved

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE NEW TESTAMENT

No. 22. Jesus Walks on the Sea

After Jesus had fed the multitude, he commanded his disciples to board a ship and cross to the other side. As they did so, Jesus sent the multitudes away. However, the ship was soon in the midst of a great storm.

"And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea. And when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear. But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I: be not afraid." (Matthew 14:25-27)

"And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water. And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus. But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me! And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt? And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased. Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Son of God." (Matthew 14:28-33)

Missionary tactics changing in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — After more than 100 years of trying to convert Japan to Christianity, foreign missionaries are changing both their attitudes and their tactics.

"We are moving toward a new type of Christianity," says the Rev. Jose M. de Vera, a Jesuit priest and dean of Sophia University's International College. "We have changed. We are not out to convince and convert people in large numbers.

"We are out to make them aware of the possibilities of Christianity. If they find something there, fine."

Despite the efforts of thousands of foreign missionaries since Japan was reopened to the world in 1856, only about one per cent of the 113 million Japanese are baptized Christians.

"We've had a chance for 100 years, but we haven't exactly swept the Japanese off their feet," admitted the Rev. Neal H. Lawrence, a Benedictine missionary from Hartisville, Tenn.

Many missionaries say the reasons for their lack of success came partly from Japanese culture, partly from the western nature of Christianity and partly from the missionaries themselves.

First, the tactics of the missionaries often turned off prospective Japanese Christians.

"When we first came here, we were trained to go door-todoor," said the Rev. Hubert Helling of the Church of the Nazarene. But in Japan, not even salesmen go door-to-door. "It's considered impolite, bothersome."

Such direct approaches are still followed by a few religions in Japan — Jehovah's Witnesses, Latter-day Saints (Mormons) and some "new" religions, both Christian and nonChristian. The Unification Church, whose members are commonly known as "moonies," claims direct evangelism, including street corner pitches, has netted them 260,000 members in Japan since active missionary work began in 1964.

Bishop Law confirms class of 48

CHAFFEE — Forty-eight candidates were confirmed by the Most Rev. Bernard F. Law, Bishop of the Springfield Cape Girardeau Diocese, Sunday at St. Ambrose Catholic Church.

This was the first confirmation class in eight years, the pastor of the church, the Rev. Raymond Kunkle said. Bishop Law conducted a Day of Renewal for candidates and their sponsors from noon until 6 p.m., when the confirmation ceremony took place, with parent participation.

The Daughters of St. Ambrose served dinner to candidates and their sponsors.

The group had been in confirmation preparation with Father Kunkle for one year. Music for the confirmation liturgy was furnished by St. Ambrose school choir, with Mrs. Mary Jansen directing.

At least 150,000 species of flowering plant are known.

Seminary honors Sikeston pastor

The Rev. Dr. Arthur C. Fulbright, minister of First United Methodist Church, Highway 61 North received a special citation Oct. 12 as a partner in Ministry with Saint Paul School of Theology, awarded by action of the Kansas City Seminary's Board of Trustees.

Seminary president William McElvaney explained that the action was taken by the trustee in recognition that Dr. Fulbright represents the highest level of support for the seminary through the kind of public relations maintained in his church communications, in promoting a scholarship fund annually through the Sikeston congregation, and by his help to secure financial support from individual members of the congregation.

In presenting the plaque of recognition for distinguished service, Bishop Robert E. Goodrich Jr., chairman of the board, praised Dr. Fulbright for his enthusiastic support of Saint Paul School of Theology.

The inscription on the plaque reads: Arthur C. Fulbright is hereby recognized as Partner in Ministry with Saint Paul School of Theology and is commended for his loyal witness and service in support of theological education Saint Paul style.

Crusade sermon to be illustrated

Evangelist G. B. McDowell, who is presently engaged in a revival crusade at Calvary Assembly, 127 W. Trotter St., will present an unusual dramatized and illustrated sermon Sunday morning at 9:30, according to Pastor T. A. McDonough.

Rather than the regular schedule of Sunday School and preaching service, for this Sunday only the two services will be combined into one gigantic service beginning at 9:30 and concluding at 11 a.m. All ages from 12 up will gather in the auditorium for this special presentation, for which an attendance goal of 500-plus has been set.

The sermon, titled "The Haunted Platter", deals with the unusual request to King Herod by Salome that she be given the head of John the Baptist on a platter because she had pleased the King with her dance. She had been prompted by her mother who hated John the Baptist because his preaching angered her.

Pastor McDonough encourages all parents who do not have a regular church home to bring their families to hear this illustrated sermon, which he says is of special interest to teen-agers and has led hundreds of teens and adults alike to accept Christ.

Seminary honors Sikeston pastor

The Rev. Dr. Arthur C. Fulbright, minister of First United Methodist Church, Highway 61 North received a special citation Oct. 12 as a partner in Ministry with Saint Paul School of Theology, awarded by action of the Kansas City Seminary's Board of Trustees.

Seminary president William McElvaney explained that the action was taken by the trustee in recognition that Dr. Fulbright represents the highest level of support for the seminary through the kind of public relations maintained in his church communications, in promoting a scholarship fund annually through the Sikeston congregation, and by his help to secure financial support from individual members of the congregation.

In presenting the plaque of recognition for distinguished service, Bishop Robert E. Goodrich Jr., chairman of the board, praised Dr. Fulbright for his enthusiastic support of Saint Paul School of Theology.

The inscription on the plaque reads: Arthur C. Fulbright is hereby recognized as Partner in Ministry with Saint Paul School of Theology and is commended for his loyal witness and service in support of theological education Saint Paul style.

Laymen's League rally set Sunday

JACKSON — The Cape Girardeau Zone of the Lutheran Laymen's League will hold its 18th annual fall rally Sunday at Immanuel Lutheran Church in the Tilsit community five miles south of town.

The rally will begin at 3 p.m., following registration at 2:30 p.m., Dwayne C. Lorenz of Sikeston the Cape Girardeau Zone president, has announced. The presentation titled, "Lift Up Your Voice," from the 1977 Denver International LLL Convention.

Then the Rev. Helmuth Sylvester, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church at Egypt Mills, will present a special program, "The New Outreach of LLL", followed by his personal observations of how he saw the workings of the LLL from both the inside and now on the outside of the church organization.

Special membership representative awards will be presented to those laymen who met certain membership percentages in their local congregation. These membership chairman include Paul Bruening of Jackson, Gene Crader of Cape Girardeau, Walter Thies of Poplar Bluff, Charles Lloyd of Malden, Lorenz and the late Williiam A. Gemeinhardt of Matthews. These men and 13 others throughout the zone enrolled 737 members this past year.

Some of the work of the LLL include "The Lutheran Hour" on radio, now in its 45th year. Just beginning its 26th season on TV, "This Is The Life," and Emmy award-winning program, is the longest syndicated TV program in the world.

Bishop Law confirms class of 48

CHAFFEE — Forty-eight candidates were confirmed by the Most Rev. Bernard F. Law, Bishop of the Springfield Cape Girardeau Diocese, Sunday at St. Ambrose Catholic Church.

This was the first confirmation class in eight years, the pastor of the church, the Rev. Raymond Kunkle said. Bishop Law conducted a Day of Renewal for candidates and their sponsors from noon until 6 p.m., when the confirmation ceremony took place, with parent participation.

The Daughters of St. Ambrose served dinner to candidates and their sponsors.

The group had been in confirmation preparation with Father Kunkle for one year. Music for the confirmation liturgy was furnished by St. Ambrose school choir, with Mrs. Mary Jansen directing.

Crusade sermon to be illustrated

Evangelist G. B. McDowell, who is presently engaged in a revival crusade at Calvary Assembly, 127 W. Trotter St., will present an unusual dramatized and illustrated sermon Sunday morning at 9:30, according to Pastor T. A. McDonough.

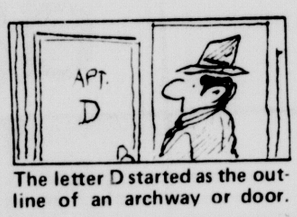

Rather than the regular schedule of Sunday School and preaching service, for this Sunday only the two services will be combined into one gigantic service beginning at 9:30 and concluding at 11 a.m. All ages from 12 up will gather in the auditorium for this special presentation, for which an attendance goal of 500-plus has been set.

The sermon, titled "The Haunted Platter", deals with the unusual request to King Herod by Salome that she be given the head of John the Baptist on a platter because she had pleased the King with her dance. She had been prompted by her mother who hated John the Baptist because his preaching angered her.

Pastor McDonough encourages all parents who do not have a regular church home to bring their families to hear this illustrated sermon, which he says is of special interest to teen-agers and has led hundreds of teens and adults alike to accept Christ.

Missionary tactics changing in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — After more than 100 years of trying to convert Japan to Christianity, foreign missionaries are changing both their attitudes and their tactics.

"We are moving toward a new type of Christianity," says the Rev. Jose M. de Vera, a Jesuit priest and dean of Sophia University's International College. "We have changed. We are not out to convince and convert people in large numbers.

"We are out to make them aware of the possibilities of Christianity. If they find something there, fine."

Despite the efforts of thousands of foreign missionaries since Japan was reopened to the world in 1856, only about one per cent of the 113 million Japanese are baptized Christians.

"We've had a chance for 100 years, but we haven't exactly swept the Japanese off their feet," admitted the Rev. Neal H. Lawrence, a Benedictine missionary from Hartisville, Tenn.

Many missionaries say the reasons for their lack of success came partly from Japanese culture, partly from the western nature of Christianity and partly from the missionaries themselves.

First, the tactics of the missionaries often turned off prospective Japanese Christians.

"When we first came here, we were trained to go door-todoor," said the Rev. Hubert Helling of the Church of the Nazarene. But in Japan, not even salesmen go door-to-door. "It's considered impolite, bothersome."

Such direct approaches are still followed by a few religions in Japan — Jehovah's Witnesses, Latter-day Saints (Mormons) and some "new" religions, both Christian and nonChristian. The Unification Church, whose members are commonly known as "moonies," claims direct evangelism, including street corner pitches, has netted them 260,000 members in Japan since active missionary work began in 1964.

At least 150,000 species of flowering plant are known.

No. 22. Jesus Walks on the Sea

After Jesus had fed the multitude, he commanded his disciples to board a ship and cross to the other side. As they did so, Jesus sent the multitudes away. However, the ship was soon in the midst of a great storm.

"And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea. And when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear. But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I: be not afraid." (Matthew 14:25-27)

"And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water. And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus. But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me! And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt? And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased. Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Son of God." (Matthew 14:28-33)

Meyr, Smith plan changes as Dogs and Bengals meet at Cape

BY CHARLIE FRANCIS
Daily Standard Sports Editor

Both the SikestonBulldogs and the Cape Central Tigers are coming off disappointing losses last week, and neither coach is about to sit idly by and do nothing about changing their fortunes.

Dutch Meyr, the first-year Central coach, indicated that he might give junior quarterback Kurt Restemeyer some playing time in tonight's crucial Northern Division battle against the Bulldogs at Houck Stadium inCape.

And Bulldog coach Terry Smith has a few lineup changes of his own as he hopes to revive the chances of his team to win its second straightconference title.

Sophomore Gary Lasater, a junior varsity standout before an ankle injury sidelined him recently, will be back in action – this time for the varsity. Smith announced Lasater as a starter atlinebacker for the Dogs, and also indicated that he would also see action at running back on offense.

And while that red-haired tenth-grader will lend his talents to the Sikeston effort tonight, there was good news from the SHS camp as they try to beef up their defense for tonight's encounter. Junior tackle Marty Nelson, out since the Kennett game with a severe ankle sprain, has been pronounced fit for action andwill return to his spot on the defensive line. And senior Glynn Felton will be back in uniform this evening after a long absence. Felton will see limited action at linebacker, Smith said.

Junior Andy Limbaugh, who has passed the Tigers to a 5-1 record so far this year and upset wins over Vianney of St. Louis and Paducah Tilghman, is still listed as a starter for tonight's game. But don't be surprised if Restemeyer gets in there before the night is over.

Smith, although reluctant to make public details of his plans, said that the Bulldogs would try a few new and different things tonight in an attempt to crack the stingy defense of the Bengals. But other than the possible part-time use of Lasater in the backfield, the Sikeston mentor indicated no personnel changes on offense.

Conference games are the rule this evening as the league races wind down to their climax. Charleston visits Jackson and Dexter meets Poplar Bluff in big Northern Division battles tonight, while Perryville hosts Kennett in a Saturday afternoon game.Caruthersville hosts Portageville in agame that go a long way toward deciding the Southern Division champ. Malden travels to Chaffee for another big South game, while South Perniscot hosts Doniphan in a contest between second division teams. Hayti has forfeited tonight's schedule conference game against Illmo-Scott City after injuries reduced their number of healthy varsity players to only eight

Southern Cal. Notre Dame set to resume rivalry at South Bend

AP Sports Writer

Knute Rockne and Howard Jones started it by shaking hands on a midwestern football field more than half a century ago.

"That's one game you owe me," Rockne said after Jones' Iowa team had upset Notre Dame in the early 1920s.

A couple of seasons later, when Rockne was looking for a team to play on the West Coast, Jones accomodated him as the new Southern Cal coach.

That's how the Notre DameSouthern Cal football series started in 1926.

Fueled by the spirit of those two inspirational coaches, the rivalry soon developed into one of the most passionate in America, and Saturday it's Game No. 49 in the historic series, at South Bend, Ind.

As generally is the case, both teams are ranked in the Top 20 — Southern Cal at No. 5 and Notre Dame at No. 11. And as usual, both teams are ready to go for each other's throats.

"No one has stopped their offense this season," says Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine, fearful of an intimidating Southern Cal team that is ranked No. 2 offensively in the country. "They have a super offense with skilled people at every position."

Two of the skilled people are Charles White, another in a long list of fine Trojan tailbacks, and quarterback Rob Hertel. White has rushed out of USC's destructive I-Formation for 699 yards and Hertel has completed 66 of 116 passes for 1,031 yards and eight touchdowns.

Notre Dame isn't short on talent, either. The offense is keyed by Jerome Heavens, who set a single-game school record last week by rushing for 200 yards against Army. The defense is buttressed by Ross Browner, one of the country's top ends.

Top-ranked Michigan, meanwhile, figures to have an easy time with its opponent. The Wolverines, one of only two undefeated and untied teams in the Top Twenty, have outscored six teams by an average score of 32-7. The Minnesota Gophers, on the other hand, have had it tough scoring at all and only one time this season have they managed to get more than one touchdown in a game.

Second-ranked Texas, the other Top Twenty team with a perfect record, plays at SMU in what appears to be another mismatch. The Longhorns have beaten two of the nation's top clubs in Oklahoma and Arkansas the past two weeks.

Third-ranked Alabama appears to have a soft touch, too, in Louisville, although Coach Bear Bryant doesn't think so.

"We expect them to come out here and play the game of their lives," Bryant said of the Cardinals.

Fourth-ranked Ohio State is a huge favorite over Northwestern, although Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes never figures on an easy game.

Elsewhere, No. 6 Oklahoma hosts No. 16 Iowa State; No. 7 Colorado visits No. 18 Nebraska; No. 8 Kentucky tackles Georgia; Houston plays at No. 9 Arkansas and No. 10 Penn State entertains West Virginia.

In the rest of the Top Twenty, it's No. 12 Texas A&M at Rice; Syracuse at No. 14 Pitt; No. 15 California at UCLA; No. 17 Brigham Young at Wyoming; Tennessee at No. 19 Florida and North Carolina State at No. 20 Clemson.

Bank failures in New York City caused a financial panic in 1873.

Malone goes for Dolphin record

AP Sports Writer

He's no Larry Csonka or Jim Kiick or, for that matter, Mercury Morris. But the Miami Dolphins are perfectly happy with Benny Malone, thank you.

Malone operates out of the same backfield where Csonka, Kiick and Morris once worked, and he has an opportunity Sunday to accomplish something that no member of that other trio ever did.

With two straight 100-yard rushing games, Malone goes for No. 3 and a line in the Dolphins' record book when Miami faces the Seattle Seahawks. Those other guys all had 100yard games, but no Miami runner ever has put three of them in a row.

Sunday's National Football League schedule is split exactly along conference lines.

In the American Conference, besides Seattle at Miami, Baltimore is at New England, Cleveland at Buffalo, Denver at Cincinnati, Houston at Pittsburgh, Kansas City at San Diego, and Oakland at the New York Jets.

In the National Conference, it's Atlanta at Chicago, Dallas at Philadelphia, Detroit at San Francisco, Green Bay at Tampa Bay, New Orleans at St. Louis, and the New York Giants at Washington.

The Monday night game sends Minnesota at Los Angeles in an NFC contest.

Malone led the Dolphins with 797 yards rushing last year and has 387 after five weeks this season. He is fifth in the AFC but leads the conference with an average of 5.5 yards per carry.

"As you get older, you get wiser, and I'm getting smarter." he said. "I'm reading blocks much better. I'm taking my time and things are happening. A lot of times, I would be too fast for the hole and I was trying to make things happen."

Now, instead, Malone lets things happen, following his blockers through the line. "I'm more of a controlled runner," he said.

Baltimore, the only team to beat the Dolphins, takes its perfect 5-0 record to New England, against the rebounding Patriots, who have won two straight games and are one game behind Miami and two games in back of the Colts.

Bert Jones of Baltimore is the AFC's No. 1 passer, throwing for 768 yards and six touchdowns, while the Pats' Sam Cunningham (482 yards) spearheads a ground game that has produced 959 rushing yards, tops in the NFL.

Dallas and Denver are the other NFL teams still unbeaten.

The Cowboys, two games in front of Washington in the NFC East, had eight sacks against the Redskins and permitted Washington one net yard passing last week.

The Broncos kayoed defending champion Oakland last week, turning seven interceptions and five sacks into a one-sided victory. Denver now has the NFL's longest current winning streak with seven consecutive triumphs over two years.

Fight was costly for Kareem

LOS ANGELES (AP) — No one looms larger — in or out of the lineup — than 7-foot-2½ Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Los Angeles Lakers.

The perennial most valuable player of the National Basketball Association will be out of action "approximately three weeks" because of a broken bone in his right hand.

Abdul-Jabbar was also fined a league-record $5,000 by NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien Thursday for throwing a punch that broke the hand. The blow floored Milwaukee Bucks' rookie center Kent Benson Tuesday night.

Films showed the punch came after Benson had elbowed the Laker star in the midsection early in a game won by Milwaukee 117-112.

Jabbar was ejected and Benson missed the remainder of that game and another contest Wednesday night against Denver, suffering from what the Bucks called an apparent mild concussion and cuts near the eye.

O'Brien's statement indicated he might have imposed a sizable suspension as well on the player who has been league MVP a record-matching five times, including the last two years in succession. But it appears nine or more games Abdul-Jabbar loses due to the hand injury more than covers the sin involved.

The Laker record stands at 1-1 so far without Jabbar. His 7foot replacement, James Edwards, a rookie from Washington, is expected to have difficulties when matched against established stars of the NBA.

Dr. Herbert Stark, a Los Angeles orthopedic surgeon, examined Abdul-Jabbar's injury Thursday. Dr. Robert Kerlan, team physican, said Abdul-Jabbar would have to wear a cast on his right hand for three weeks.

The hand had swelled up twice normal size within 12 hours of the injury. The break, technically a fracture of the fourth metacarpal, was not as severe as first feared, the doctor's statement said.

Kerlan said that when AbdulJabbar does play again, he probably will wear a protective device while the healing process ends.

Abdul-Jabbar had not missed a game since the end of the 1974-75 season. Neither Abdul-Jabbar nor any Laker officials would comment on the fine.

Meyr, Smith plan changes as Dogs and Bengals meet at Cape

BY CHARLIE FRANCIS
Daily Standard Sports Editor

Both the SikestonBulldogs and the Cape Central Tigers are coming off disappointing losses last week, and neither coach is about to sit idly by and do nothing about changing their fortunes.

Dutch Meyr, the first-year Central coach, indicated that he might give junior quarterback Kurt Restemeyer some playing time in tonight's crucial Northern Division battle against the Bulldogs at Houck Stadium inCape.

And Bulldog coach Terry Smith has a few lineup changes of his own as he hopes to revive the chances of his team to win its second straightconference title.

Sophomore Gary Lasater, a junior varsity standout before an ankle injury sidelined him recently, will be back in action – this time for the varsity. Smith announced Lasater as a starter atlinebacker for the Dogs, and also indicated that he would also see action at running back on offense.

And while that red-haired tenth-grader will lend his talents to the Sikeston effort tonight, there was good news from the SHS camp as they try to beef up their defense for tonight's encounter. Junior tackle Marty Nelson, out since the Kennett game with a severe ankle sprain, has been pronounced fit for action andwill return to his spot on the defensive line. And senior Glynn Felton will be back in uniform this evening after a long absence. Felton will see limited action at linebacker, Smith said.

Junior Andy Limbaugh, who has passed the Tigers to a 5-1 record so far this year and upset wins over Vianney of St. Louis and Paducah Tilghman, is still listed as a starter for tonight's game. But don't be surprised if Restemeyer gets in there before the night is over.

Smith, although reluctant to make public details of his plans, said that the Bulldogs would try a few new and different things tonight in an attempt to crack the stingy defense of the Bengals. But other than the possible part-time use of Lasater in the backfield, the Sikeston mentor indicated no personnel changes on offense.

Conference games are the rule this evening as the league races wind down to their climax. Charleston visits Jackson and Dexter meets Poplar Bluff in big Northern Division battles tonight, while Perryville hosts Kennett in a Saturday afternoon game.Caruthersville hosts Portageville in agame that go a long way toward deciding the Southern Division champ. Malden travels to Chaffee for another big South game, while South Pemiscot hosts Doniphan in a contest between second division teams. Hayti has forfeited tonight's schedule conference game against Illmo-Scott City after injuries reduced their number of healthy varsity players to only eight

AP Sports Writer

Knute Rockne and Howard Jones started it by shaking hands on a midwestern football field more than half a century ago.

"That's one game you owe me," Rockne said after Jones' Iowa team had upset Notre Dame in the early 1920s.

A couple of seasons later, when Rockne was looking for a team to play on the West Coast, Jones accomodated him as the new Southern Cal coach.

That's how the Notre DameSouthern Cal football series started in 1926.

Fueled by the spirit of those two inspirational coaches, the rivalry soon developed into one of the most passionate in America, and Saturday it's Game No. 49 in the historic series, at South Bend, Ind.

As generally is the case, both teams are ranked in the Top 20 — Southern Cal at No. 5 and Notre Dame at No. 11. And as usual, both teams are ready to go for each other's throats.

"No one has stopped their offense this season," says Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine, fearful of an intimidating Southern Cal team that is ranked No. 2 offensively in the country. "They have a super offense with skilled people at every position."

Two of the skilled people are Charles White, another in a long list of fine Trojan tailbacks, and quarterback Rob Hertel. White has rushed out of USC's destructive I-Formation for 699 yards and Hertel has completed 66 of 116 passes for 1,031 yards and eight touchdowns.

Notre Dame isn't short on talent, either. The offense is keyed by Jerome Heavens, who set a single-game school record last week by rushing for 200 yards against Army. The defense is buttressed by Ross Browner, one of the country's top ends.

Top-ranked Michigan, meanwhile, figures to have an easy time with its opponent. The Wolverines, one of only two undefeated and untied teams in the Top Twenty, have outscored six teams by an average score of 32-7. The Minnesota Gophers, on the other hand, have had it tough scoring at all and only one time this season have they managed to get more than one touchdown in a game.

Second-ranked Texas, the other Top Twenty team with a perfect record, plays at SMU in what appears to be another mismatch. The Longhorns have beaten two of the nation's top clubs in Oklahoma and Arkansas the past two weeks.

Third-ranked Alabama appears to have a soft touch, too, in Louisville, although Coach Bear Bryant doesn't think so.

"We expect them to come out here and play the game of their lives," Bryant said of the Cardinals.

Fourth-ranked Ohio State is a huge favorite over Northwestern, although Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes never figures on an easy game.

Elsewhere, No. 6 Oklahoma hosts No. 16 Iowa State; No. 7 Colorado visits No. 18 Nebraska; No. 8 Kentucky tackles Georgia; Houston plays at No. 9 Arkansas and No. 10 Penn State entertains West Virginia.

In the rest of the Top Twenty, it's No. 12 Texas A&M at Rice; Syracuse at No. 14 Pitt; No. 15 California at UCLA; No. 17 Brigham Young at Wyoming; Tennessee at No. 19 Florida and North Carolina State at No. 20 Clemson.

Malone goes for Dolphin record

AP Sports Writer

He's no Larry Csonka or Jim Kiick or, for that matter, Mercury Morris. But the Miami Dolphins are perfectly happy with Benny Malone, thank you.

Malone operates out of the same backfield where Csonka, Kiick and Morris once worked, and he has an opportunity Sunday to accomplish something that no member of that other trio ever did.

With two straight 100-yard rushing games, Malone goes for No. 3 and a line in the Dolphins' record book when Miami faces the Seattle Seahawks. Those other guys all had 100yard games, but no Miami runner ever has put three of them in a row.

Sunday's National Football League schedule is split exactly along conference lines.

In the American Conference, besides Seattle at Miami, Baltimore is at New England, Cleveland at Buffalo, Denver at Cincinnati, Houston at Pittsburgh, Kansas City at San Diego, and Oakland at the New York Jets.

In the National Conference, it's Atlanta at Chicago, Dallas at Philadelphia, Detroit at San Francisco, Green Bay at Tampa Bay, New Orleans at St. Louis, and the New York Giants at Washington.

The Monday night game sends Minnesota at Los Angeles in an NFC contest.

Malone led the Dolphins with 797 yards rushing last year and has 387 after five weeks this season. He is fifth in the AFC but leads the conference with an average of 5.5 yards per carry.

Tough schedule tonight for prediction panelists

"There's only one game this week that couldn't be considered as a potential upset," Charlie "The Chief" Francis was saying the other night about tonight's high school football schedule.

That one game, Illmo-Scott City at Hayti, was the only "breather" on the schedule for the Standard's fearless panel of football predicters. And now, since Hayti has forfeited that ballgame to the Rams because of not having enough players to field a team, even that one "sure bet" ballgame has been taken away from our quartet, making the chore of calling tonight's winners even tougher.

Tonight's predictions promise to have a big impact on the outcome of our friendly competition for the honor of being the best high school football prognosticator around. As you are about to read, the panel is split on several of tonight's games, and you can bet the standings will look a little different after tonight's action.

Here are the records of the panel so far this season:

Right 46-15 Wrong, 75-47 pct.

Dale "Forb" Forbis, Right 49-12 wrong, 80.3 pct.

David "ZIG" Ziegenhorn Right 40-13Wrong, 75.47 pct.

Charlie "CHIEF" Francis Right 46-15Wrong, 75.41 Pct.

Mike "WHALE" Marsh, Right 43-18 Wrong, 70-5 Pct.

Tie scores have been discarded.

Although none of the other three have conceded first place to Forb just yet, a tight race is shaping up for second place. Only 6-100ths of a percentage point separate Zig and the Chief.

Without further ado, here are this weekend's predictions:

BASKETBALL

LOS ANGELES — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Los Angeles Lakers' superstar center who suffered a broken bone in his right hand when he pucnhed Milwaukee rookie Kent Benson, was fined a record $5,000 by the National Basketball Association and will be sidelined for three weeks, the Lakers announced.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien levied the stiff fine, the largest in league history, for the incident that occurred Tuesday night in the season opener at Milwaukee.

GOLF

COLUMBUS, Ga. — Jerry Pate, the 1976 U.S. Open champion, fired a six-under-par 64 to take a one-stroke lead after the first round of the $125,000 Southern Open Golf Tournament.

Dave Eichelberger was one stroke back while George Archer was two shots off the pace.

Namath not giving up on football career yet

AP Special Correspondent

The City of the Angels was burning with World Series fever, but across town at a fashionable Beverly Hills hotel one could cut the quietude with a rusty hacksaw.

The Los Angeles Rams, as customary for all home games, had checked in for a night of meditation before facing the New Orleans Saints at the Coliseum.

"Pardon me," a visiting newsman said, "could you tell me if Joe Namath has registered yet?"

"Yes." the clerk replied stonily, "There he is, over there catching the elevator."

Sure enough, there stood a man in blue jeans, shoulders hunched, long black hair curling around his neck.

He was alone. No Hollywood starlets hanging on his arms. No Good Time Johnnies in tuxedos and black ties kicking up a storm. No line of kids queuing up for autographs.

"Come on up," Namath said politely. He had a chew of tobacco in his mouth.

Upstairs, Joe threw his jacket across a chair, picked up the telephone and asked for room service.

"Two bottles of white wine," he said. He used to order Scotch.

"Tell me," the visitor inquired, "are you happy?"

There might have been a time when Namath would have stiffened at such a question and blurted an epithet.

"Moderately," he said with a thin smile.

This isn't the best of times for Joe Namath, pro football's passing legend who put the numeral "12" on the jersey of every aspiring quarterback.

A $275,000 a year commodity with the New York Jets, he carried a princely price tag and a ton of pressure when he went to the Rams. Unable to move the Los Angeles team above a .500 percentage (2-2 in the first four games), he found himself benched, replaced by 24-year-old Pat Haden.

"I was really down in the dumps at first," Namath said. "Then two things happened. I saw the sun come up and I said to myself, 'The world's not coming to an end because of a damn football game.' Then the telephone rang. It was Ed Marinaro. He had seen the Monday night game against the Bears in Chicago — a miserable game for us. He was calling to try to console me.

"What an irony that was. Here was Marinaro. The poor guy had just been released by the Jets. He didn't have a job. He didn't know where he might go next.

"And here I was. I still had my job. No worry about money. No worry about anything. And he's calling to try to build up my spirits. It was really something."

Namath said he had quit reading newspaper headlines years ago but he knew what to anticipate: "Benched Namath Plans to Quit, Go Into Movie Career."

"No way," the 34-year-old University of Alabama product said firmly. "I agreed to this deal. I am going to stick it out. This is a good team. The Rams are going to be in the playoffs. I think I can be of help."

Namath was discouraged over the result of the Bears' game on national television Oct. 10, won by the Bears 24-23 — a game in which he threw 40 passes, completed 16, had four intercepted and took a physical beating that left both of his fragile knees badly swollen and bruised.

Game movies show it was not all Namath's fault. Missed assignments contributed. But Namath was the scapegoat. He was benched.

Immediately speculation was rife: this would be too much for Broadway Joe's pride. He is sure to quit. Back to the movies, Joe.

Forget it. They don't know Joe Namath.

When he went to the Rams, Namath lay his football reputation on the line. He took an apartment in Long Beach, instead of Beverly Hills. He disdained the Hollywood set. He told his manager, Jimmy Walsh, to spurn all movie and TV commitments. He launched a rigorous physical conditioning program. He made football his life.

"I am in the best shape I've been in in years," he said. "I can still play. When Coach (Chuck) Knox gives the signal, I'll be ready."

Jackson story wouldn't need exaggerating

NEW YORK (AP) — Before Reggie Jackson slammed his third homer in the eighth inning of the final World Series game Tuesday night, he held up three fingers to the fans. Was he predicting his third homer, like the immortal Babe Ruth once did?

"No, I was just telling the fans 'three outs to go,'" said Jackson.

Well, so much for legends.

Actually, there is no need to inflate the truth when it comes to Reggie Jackson. Reality is strange enough.

Much of the "Babe Ruth Story," starring William Bendix, is apocryphal. But when the time comes to film "The Reggie Jackson Story," there will be enough reality to keep the cameras rolling for a long time.

The action undoubtebly will go heavy on 1977, the year the New York Yankees almost drove Jackson crazy before Reggie drove them to baseball's championship.

"This year isn't a baseball story to me," Jackson said Thursday when he received a car from Sport Magazine as the World Series' Most Valuable Player.

He gave the car to his sister, Tina Jones of Baltimore. Half his Series share, he said, would be channeled into charities in New York, Arizona and Oakland — where he has his homes. And his World Series ring would be made into a trophy "because of what the season means to me."

Volleyballers victim of Perryville

PERRYVILLE -- How quickly things can change in the game of volleyball.

Sikeston High School's girls had claimed a 17-15 victory in the second game to even their match against Perryville at one game each. Momentum seemed to be on SHS's side, but not for long.

"One girl served eleven straight points," said Sikeston coach Janie Merrick about her teams collapse in the third game, which went to Perryville 15-1 and gave the hosts the match. Perryville had won the first game 15-9.

"I guess our girls got a little rattled out there," added Merrick.

The loss in the final regular season game of the 1977 volleyball campaign dropped Sikeston's record to 3-7 going into the Lilbourn tournament. The team is seeded fourth in that event and will meet Oran at 6:30 on Halloween night. The district tournament at Richland High School is the following week.

The junior varsity closed out its season by losing in consecutive games to Perryville by 15-7 and 15-6 scores.

Tigers, K-State hope to avoid Big Eight cellar

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Something has to give when Missouri and Kansas State square off in the Tigers' homecoming, each intent on escaping the cellar in Big Eight Conference football Saturday.

Missouri, which last week threw a scare into powerful Oklahoma before bowing 21-17, hopes it's a Wildcat defense which has grown increasingly stubborn each week.

And Kansas State, if it can bottle up the Tigers' revived attack, is also mindful of weak spots in its opponent's resistance as it attempts to end the league's longest victory drought.

The Wildcats, whose last Big Eight success was a 33-19 triumph over Colorado in 1974, have records of 0-2 in the conference and 1-5 overall which match those of Missouri.

But since the season's opening week, when bombed 37-0 by Brigham Young, Kansas State has proven tough.

A 24-21 defeat was suffered at the hands of Mississippi State three weeks ago. Two weeks ago, the Wildcats fell 26-9 to Nebraska. And last week, with victory in reach, they succumbed 21-14 to Oklahoma State.

"We're not playing to get close anymore," Ellis Rainsberger, the Kansas State coach, warns. "The biggest thing is to continue to have the effort, and for the most part our kids are fighting. We're playing to win."

Missouri, like the Wildcats, has had luck which has been mostly sour during setbacks of 11-7 against Illinois, 28-21 against California and 7-0 against Iowa State preceding the Oklahoma near miss.

But chasing some of the gloom from the latest reversal was the passing of Pete Woods. The senior quarterback, who had not played since the season opener, completed 20 of 42 aerials for 262 yards.

The Tigers, who have been plagued by injuries, will be without defensive tackle Jim Matthews, who suffered a knee injury last week.

Tough schedule tonight for prediction panelists

"There's only one game this week that couldn't be considered as a potential upset," Charlie "The Chief" Francis was saying the other night about tonight's high school football schedule.

That one game, Illmo-Scott City at Hayti, was the only "breather" on the schedule for the Standard's fearless panel of football predicters. And now, since Hayti has forfeited that ballgame to the Rams because of not having enough players to field a team, even that one "sure bet" ballgame has been taken away from our quartet, making the chore of calling tonight's winners even tougher.

Tonight's predictions promise to have a big impact on the outcome of our friendly competition for the honor of being the best high school football prognosticator around. As you are about to read, the panel is split on several of tonight's games, and you can bet the standings will look a little different after tonight's action.

Here are the records of the panel so far this season:

Right 46-15 Wrong, 75-47 pct.

Dale "Forb" Forbis, Right 49-12 wrong, 80.3 pct.

David "ZIG" Ziegenhorn Right 40-13Wrong, 75.47 pct.

Charlie "CHIEF" Francis Right 46-15Wrong, 75.41 Pct.

Mike "WHALE" Marsh, Right 43-18 Wrong, 70-5 Pct.

Tie scores have been discarded.

Although none of the other three have conceded first place to Forb just yet, a tight race is shaping up for second place. Only 6-100ths of a percentage point separate Zig and the Chief.

Without further ado, here are this weekend's predictions:

LOS ANGELES — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Los Angeles Lakers' superstar center who suffered a broken bone in his right hand when he pucnhed Milwaukee rookie Kent Benson, was fined a record $5,000 by the National Basketball Association and will be sidelined for three weeks, the Lakers announced.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien levied the stiff fine, the largest in league history, for the incident that occurred Tuesday night in the season opener at Milwaukee.

Namath not giving up on football career yet

AP Special Correspondent

The City of the Angels was burning with World Series fever, but across town at a fashionable Beverly Hills hotel one could cut the quietude with a rusty hacksaw.

The Los Angeles Rams, as customary for all home games, had checked in for a night of meditation before facing the New Orleans Saints at the Coliseum.

"Pardon me," a visiting newsman said, "could you tell me if Joe Namath has registered yet?"

"Yes," the clerk replied stonily, "There he is, over there catching the elevator."

Sure enough, there stood a man in blue jeans, shoulders hunched, long black hair curling around his neck.

He was alone. No Hollywood starlets hanging on his arms. No Good Time Johnnies in tuxedos and black ties kicking up a storm. No line of kids queuing up for autographs.

"Come on up," Namath said politely. He had a chew of tobacco in his mouth.

Upstairs, Joe threw his jacket across a chair, picked up the telephone and asked for room service.

"Two bottles of white wine," he said. He used to order Scotch.

"Tell me," the visitor inquired, "are you happy?"

There might have been a time when Namath would have stiffened at such a question and blurted an epithet.

"Moderately," he said with a thin smile.

This isn't the best of times for Joe Namath, pro football's passing legend who put the numeral "12" on the jersey of every aspiring quarterback.

A $275,000 a year commodity with the New York Jets, he carried a princely price tag and a ton of pressure when he went to the Rams. Unable to move the Los Angeles team above a .500 percentage (2-2 in the first four games), he found himself benched, replaced by 24-year-old Pat Haden.

"I was really down in the dumps at first," Namath said. "Then two things happened. I saw the sun come up and I said to myself, 'The world's not coming to an end because of a damn football game.' Then the telephone rang. It was Ed Marinaro. He had seen the Monday night game against the Bears in Chicago — a miserable game for us. He was calling to try to console me.

"What an irony that was. Here was Marinaro. The poor guy had just been released by the Jets. He didn't have a job. He didn't know where he might go next.

"And here I was. I still had my job. No worry about money. No worry about anything. And he's calling to try to build up my spirits. It was really something."

Namath said he had quit reading newspaper headlines years ago but he knew what to anticipate: "Benched Namath Plans to Quit, Go Into Movie Career."

"No way," the 34-year-old University of Alabama product said firmly. "I agreed to this deal. I am going to stick it out. This is a good team. The Rams are going to be in the playoffs. I think I can be of help."

Namath was discouraged over the result of the Bears' game on national television Oct. 10, won by the Bears 24-23 — a game in which he threw 40 passes, completed 16, had four intercepted and took a physical beating that left both of his fragile knees badly swollen and bruised.

Game movies show it was not all Namath's fault. Missed assignments contributed. But Namath was the scapegoat. He was benched.

Immediately speculation was rife: this would be too much for Broadway Joe's pride. He is sure to quit. Back to the movies, Joe.

Forget it. They don't know Joe Namath.

When he went to the Rams, Namath lay his football reputation on the line. He took an apartment in Long Beach, instead of Beverly Hills. He disdained the Hollywood set. He told his manager, Jimmy Walsh, to spurn all movie and TV commitments. He launched a rigorous physical conditioning program. He made football his life.

"I am in the best shape I've been in in years," he said. "I can still play. When Coach (Chuck) Knox gives the signal, I'll be ready."

Jackson story wouldn't need exaggerating

NEW YORK (AP) — Before Reggie Jackson slammed his third homer in the eighth inning of the final World Series game Tuesday night, he held up three fingers to the fans. Was he predicting his third homer, like the immortal Babe Ruth once did?

"No, I was just telling the fans 'three outs to go,'" said Jackson.

Well, so much for legends.

Actually, there is no need to inflate the truth when it comes to Reggie Jackson. Reality is strange enough.

Much of the "Babe Ruth Story," starring William Bendix, is apocryphal. But when the time comes to film "The Reggie Jackson Story," there will be enough reality to keep the cameras rolling for a long time.

The action undoubtebly will go heavy on 1977, the year the New York Yankees almost drove Jackson crazy before Reggie drove them to baseball's championship.

"This year isn't a baseball story to me," Jackson said Thursday when he received a car from Sport Magazine as the World Series' Most Valuable Player.

He gave the car to his sister, Tina Jones of Baltimore. Half his Series share, he said, would be channeled into charities in New York, Arizona and Oakland — where he has his homes. And his World Series ring would be made into a trophy "because of what the season means to me."

Volleyballers victim of Perryville

PERRYVILLE -- How quickly things can change in the game of volleyball.

Sikeston High School's girls had claimed a 17-15 victory in the second game to even their match against Perryville at one game each. Momentum seemed to be on SHS's side, but not for long.

"One girl served eleven straight points," said Sikeston coach Janie Merrick about her teams collapse in the third game, which went to Perryville 15-1 and gave the hosts the match. Perryville had won the first game 15-9.

"I guess our girls got a little rattled out there," added Merrick.

The loss in the final regular season game of the 1977 volleyball campaign dropped Sikeston's record to 3-7 going into the Lilbourn tournament. The team is seeded fourth in that event and will meet Oran at 6:30 on Halloween night. The district tournament at Richland High School is the following week.

The junior varsity closed out its season by losing in consecutive games to Perryville by 15-7 and 15-6 scores.

Tigers, K-State hope to avoid Big Eight cellar

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Something has to give when Missouri and Kansas State square off in the Tigers' homecoming, each intent on escaping the cellar in Big Eight Conference football Saturday.

Missouri, which last week threw a scare into powerful Oklahoma before bowing 21-17, hopes it's a Wildcat defense which has grown increasingly stubborn each week.

And Kansas State, if it can bottle up the Tigers' revived attack, is also mindful of weak spots in its opponent's resistance as it attempts to end the league's longest victory drought.

The Wildcats, whose last Big Eight success was a 33-19 triumph over Colorado in 1974, have records of 0-2 in the conference and 1-5 overall which match those of Missouri.

But since the season's opening week, when bombed 37-0 by Brigham Young, Kansas State has proven tough.

A 24-21 defeat was suffered at the hands of Mississippi State three weeks ago. Two weeks ago, the Wildcats fell 26-9 to Nebraska. And last week, with victory in reach, they succumbed 21-14 to Oklahoma State.

"We're not playing to get close anymore," Ellis Rainsberger, the Kansas State coach, warns. "The biggest thing is to continue to have the effort, and for the most part our kids are fighting. We're playing to win."

Missouri, like the Wildcats, has had luck which has been mostly sour during setbacks of 11-7 against Illinois, 28-21 against California and 7-0 against Iowa State preceding the Oklahoma near miss.

But chasing some of the gloom from the latest reversal was the passing of Pete Woods. The senior quarterback, who had not played since the season opener, completed 20 of 42 aerials for 262 yards.

The Tigers, who have been plagued by injuries, will be without defensive tackle Jim Matthews, who suffered a knee injury last week.

Wages up more than prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans' wages and salaries increased at a faster pace in September as the coal strike ended and manufacturing payrolls grew larger, the Commerce Department said today.

Total personal income of Americans was up eight-tenths of one per cent last month after rising five-tenths of a per cent the month before.

Wages and salaries rose $7.4 billion in September after climbing by $2.6 billion in August. Payrolls in commodityproducing industries, such as mining, manufacturing and food, grew $3.4 billion, after a decline of $2 billion.

Distributive industry payrolls were up $1 billion, about the same as in August.

A big increase was registered in manufacturing payrolls, which were up $199 billion in September after a drop of $1.4 billion in August. The increase in average hourly earnings, from $5.65 to $5.73, more than offset a slight decline in average weekly hours worked.

Most of the increase was in the durable goods industries, which include transportation, equipment and non-electrical machinery.

Mining payrolls rose $1.4 billion, after a decline of $300 million in August. The large increase reflects the ending of a 10-week wildcat coal strike in the East, the department said.

Personal income includes such figures as wages and salaries, interest, dividends and Social Security benefits.

Contributions to pension funds and Social Security are deducted, and the figures are calculated before taxes are paid.

Figured at a seasonally adjusted annual rate, personal income was up $12 billion to $1 trillion, 558.8 billion. The total personal income had risen $7.7 billion in August.

McDonald elected Malden Police Chief

MALDEN -- Bob McDonald edged Norman McMillion by one vote Tuesday in Malden's special election to choose a chief of police.

The final tally -- which won't be official until approved by City Council -- gave McDonald 475 votes to McMillion's 474. Carroll McGowen received 230 and Edward "Sarge" Freeman had 70.

Tuesday's winner will serve the remainder of the term of D.W. "Woody" McMillian, who died Sept. 13. McMillian was re-elected last April; the term will expire in April 1979.

A total of 1,258 persons voted, but nine of these votes were voided because judges were not able to determine the voter's intent as to which candidate he voted for (for example, placing an X beside the names of more than one candidate).

McDonald, a former deputy sheriff, received a total of 241 votes from Wards I and II and 234 from Wards III and IV. Ward I and II voters gave McMillion 210 votes and the deputy sheriff received 264 from Wards III and IV. McGowen, a former Malden patrolman, garnered 137 votes in Wards I and II and 93 in Wards III and IV. Freeman, a former Clarkton policeman, had 45 in Wards I and II; Wards III and IV gave him a total of 25.

"As it looks right now, the race will stand as it is," McMillion said in response to a query about a possible recount. "I lost the election, but I won the race," he said, praising what he called the outstanding work of his supporters during the campaign. "I don't believe there was a mistake in counting (the votes); if there was a mistake made, it was an honest mistake," McMillion declared. "I don't distrust any of them (election officials) and I have full faith in them."

McMillion said he was "Disappointed, but not hurt by the outcome" . . .adding that "I can't feel bitter about anything."

What's the law?

Thin-blooded American keeps custody of kids

BY JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Alice was involved in more foreign affairs than the Secretary of State. Consequently, her husband Bill finally threw in the towel and called it quits. He not only obtained a divorce, he also obtained custody of their two children. And, while Alice didn't mind parting from dear old Bill, she didn't like losing her kids one bit. Therefore, she started a new custody proceeding in which she pulled out all stops including a rattling skeleton from Bill's closet.

"The man's a blithering coward," she told the judge. "During World War II, he intentionally avoided meeting the enemy by going in the opposite direction. 'Retreat' was his favorite word and the whole army knew it. Now, is that the kind of man who should be entrusted with raising children?"

"My valor is irrelevant," was Bill's answer. "With bombs glasting in air, I didn't look to see if the flag was still there. I only looked to see if I was still there. And, when I found that I was, I got out fast. Under the circumstances, any thin-blooded American young man would have done the same thing. Particularly, if he was as frightened as I was."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you deprive the thin-blooded American of his children?

This is how the judge ruled: NO(The judge held that while being "dauntless in war" is an estimable virtue, a father may not be deprived of his children because he may have been a coward in war.

(Based upon a 1955 New York Supreme Court Decision)

Bids to be opened on road projects

The Missouri State Highway Commission will open bids Oct. 28, on 16 road projects expected to cost about $18 million.

Projects planned for the Southeast Missouri area include a waste stabilization lagoon next to Interstate 55, about three miles northwest of the Fruitland interchange. On U.S. Route 60 in Butler county there will be a widening of existing pavement, modification of the existing lighting, and installation of traffic signals at the U.S. Route 67 intersection in Poplar Bluff.

District 10 Engineer Lionel T. Murray of Sikeston said no other major projects are planned for the area until early 1977.

Wages up more than prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans' wages and salaries increased at a faster pace in September as the coal strike ended and manufacturing payrolls grew larger, the Commerce Department said today.

Total personal income of Americans was up eight-tenths of one per cent last month after rising five-tenths of a per cent the month before.

Wages and salaries rose $7.4 billion in September after climbing by $2.6 billion in August. Payrolls in commodityproducing industries, such as mining, manufacturing and food, grew $3.4 billion, after a decline of $2 billion.

Distributive industry payrolls were up $1 billion, about the same as in August.

A big increase was registered in manufacturing payrolls, which were up $199 billion in September after a drop of $1.4 billion in August. The increase in average hourly earnings, from $5.65 to $5.73, more than offset a slight decline in average weekly hours worked.

Most of the increase was in the durable goods industries, which include transportation, equipment and non-electrical machinery.

Mining payrolls rose $1.4 billion, after a decline of $300 million in August. The large increase reflects the ending of a 10-week wildcat coal strike in the East, the department said.

Personal income includes such figures as wages and salaries, interest, dividends and Social Security benefits.

Contributions to pension funds and Social Security are deducted, and the figures are calculated before taxes are paid.

Figured at a seasonally adjusted annual rate, personal income was up $12 billion to $1 trillion, 558.8 billion. The total personal income had risen $7.7 billion in August.

McDonald elected Malden Police Chief

MALDEN -- Bob McDonald edged Norman McMillion by one vote Tuesday in Malden's special election to choose a chief of police.

The final tally -- which won't be official until approved by City Council -- gave McDonald 475 votes to McMillion's 474. Carroll McGowen received 230 and Edward "Sarge" Freeman had 70.

Tuesday's winner will serve the remainder of the term of D.W. "Woody" McMillian, who died Sept. 13. McMillian was re-elected last April; the term will expire in April 1979.

A total of 1,258 persons voted, but nine of these votes were voided because judges were not able to determine the voter's intent as to which candidate he voted for (for example, placing an X beside the names of more than one candidate).

McDonald, a former deputy sheriff, received a total of 241 votes from Wards I and II and 234 from Wards III and IV. Ward I and II voters gave McMillion 210 votes and the deputy sheriff received 264 from Wards III and IV. McGowen, a former Malden patrolman, garnered 137 votes in Wards I and II and 93 in Wards III and IV. Freeman, a former Clarkton policeman, had 45 in Wards I and II; Wards III and IV gave him a total of 25.

"As it looks right now, the race will stand as it is," McMillion said in response to a query about a possible recount. "I lost the election, but I won the race," he said, praising what he called the outstanding work of his supporters during the campaign. "I don't believe there was a mistake in counting (the votes); if there was a mistake made, it was an honest mistake," McMillion declared. "I don't distrust any of them (election officials) and I have full faith in them."

McMillion said he was "Disappointed, but not hurt by the outcome" . . .adding that "I can't feel bitter about anything."

What's the law?

Thin-blooded American keeps custody of kids

BY JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Alice was involved in more foreign affairs than the Secretary of State. Consequently, her husband Bill finally threw in the towel and called it quits. He not only obtained a divorce, he also obtained custody of their two children. And, while Alice didn't mind parting from dear old Bill, she didn't like losing her kids one bit. Therefore, she started a new custody proceeding in which she pulled out all stops including a rattling skeleton from Bill's closet.

"The man's a blithering coward," she told the judge. "During World War II, he intentionally avoided meeting the enemy by going in the opposite direction. 'Retreat' was his favorite word and the whole army knew it. Now, is that the kind of man who should be entrusted with raising children?"

"My valor is irrelevant," was Bill's answer. "With bombs glasting in air, I didn't look to see if the flag was still there. I only looked to see if I was still there. And, when I found that I was, I got out fast. Under the circumstances, any thin-blooded American young man would have done the same thing. Particularly, if he was as frightened as I was."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you deprive the thin-blooded American of his children?

This is how the judge ruled: NO(The judge held that while being "dauntless in war" is an estimable virtue, a father may not be deprived of his children because he may have been a coward in war.

Bernie liquor license fight may go to court

BERNIE -- The City Council's failure to pass a proposed ordinance allowing an additional package liquor license in Bernie may result in a court battle.

Ron Hardin, owner of the "Mr. Quick" store in Bernie, told members of the Council that he planned "to take the city to court" because its present ordinance concerning regulation of package liquor stores in Bernie was "unreasonable."

A proposed ordinance to allow an additional package liquor store in Bernie was killed on the Sept. 3. Council meeting when the aldermen failed to make a motion on its second feading. Members of the Bernie Ministerial Alliance had attended that meeting with petitions asking the city aldermen to uphold the city's present ordinance. The ordinance died Monday night in a similar manner.

Bernie's current ordinance allows one package liquor store per 2,000 persons. The proposed ordinance would have allowed one package liquor store for each 750 persons.

Hardin reapplied for a package liquor license Monday and informed the council that he would be forced to seek legal counsel on the matter if he did not receive license approval.

"I realize you were under a lot of pressure," Hardin told the council when he referred to the Ministerial Alliance attending the last meeting.

Hardin noted that he wanted to operate a business and that the building would be as neat in appearance as any drug store in town.

Hardin noted that if the ordinance failed, longtime resident and former city alderman, H.R. Bowman, had volunteered to pay for legal assistance in court proceedings. Hardin said many cases between cities and individuals were not possible because the individual could not afford court costs and ordinances remained on the books. Hardin noted that he was fortunate enough to be backed by Bowman.

Bowman also attended the meeting. He told the Council that there is a separation between church and state and the Council should reconsider on the ordinance ruling. Bowman noted that he had bought liquor in the past for two ordained ministers in the city.

Leon Bowman also attended the meeting in support of Hardin. The younger Bowman noted that one page of 33 signatures on the Ministerial Alliance petition contained 11 from out-of-town residents, two signatures, were made by people under the age of 14, and two signatures were in the same handwriting.

Leon Bowman said one woman who does drink was asked to sign the petition at church. She had told Bowman, "What could I do, they caught me at church?" He said another person who drinks at his house signed the petition.

Leon Bowman continued and noted that there was no nice place in town where a woman could go and purchase beer.

The older of the two, H.R. Bowman noted, "Dexter and Malden are sucking the life out of us,"

Hardin noted the additional sales in town was "a matter of simple economics."

"There's only one of us that is going to lose... the city of Bernie," Hardin said.

Alderman Luther McDowell said he felt the council was being pressured by Hardin, just like the council had been pressured by the Ministerial Alliance two weeks earlier.

Alderman H.C. Newingham again made a motion to approve the ordinance with a second by Alderman Jerry Phelan. Just as before, the alderman failed to make a motion for a second reading of the proposed ordinance.

"Are you gentlemen going to let it die before it gets to a vote?", Hardin asked. He also addressed the aldermen noting that they didn't have to come and apologize at the coffee shop the next day. Hardin added that the board considered him as a second class citizen because he wanted to sell liquor.

A personal argument between Gary Blocker, a liquor store supporter, and Alderman Willard Adams, the main opponent of the proposed ordinance, broke out after the motion was killed.

Alderman Ray Coats calmed the two, saying: "It's getting a little out of control."

Mayor R.B. Woods quickly recessed the meeting in order for the board to watch a fire department vehicle extrication demonstration outside the city hall building.

The council approved a license for Russell Hayden, owner of the Old Town Tavern.

A recent ordinance, approved by the council, said a tavern owner must live in the city limits. A "grandfather clause" would make Hayden an exception.

Resident Leon Bowman asked new city attorney Steve Holden if the ordinance concerning city residency would hold up in a court of law as being constitutional.

Holden quietly replied, "no."

Earlier in the meeting, Darryl Orr of Trotter and Associates engineering firm announced that Brown Construction Company of Dexter was awarded with the contract for water and sewer facilities for the Northside Industrial Park. Brown's bid was $63,197.80. Other bids for the project had included $64,391 from Boyer Construction Company of Sikeston, and $79,066.50 also from Sikeston.

A contract for a 150,000 gallon water storage tank for the industrial park was awarded to Caldwell Tanks, Inc. of Louisville, Ky. for $88,652. Other bids included $94,870 from Universal Tank and Iron Works at Indianapolis, Ind.; $99,060 from Brown Steel Contractors, Inc. of Newman, Ga.; $98,000 from Globe Industrial Contractors of Henderson Ky.; and $104,000 from PDM Hydrostorage, Inc. Des Moines, Iowa.

The council voted to purchase video camera equipment to be used for city broadcasts, if the price was reasonable.

Alderman H.C. Newingham said the equipment could possibly be used for broadcasting high school sports, church services, and other town functions. Newingham said a committee would be set up to regulate the use of the equipment if it was purchased.

Alderman Willard Adams said he planned to invite an insurance representative to a future meeting in order to discuss the city's liability insurance.

Alderman Luther McDowell agreed to look into the possibility of getty ramps on sidewalks in the Bernie shopping district for wheelchair victims.

Mayor Woods noted that an additional one cent sales tax for Bernie was inevitable if the city was going to compete with other towns with the extra revenue.

Susie Miller's spirits still good

KELSO -- Susie Miller's engagement announcement is still lying in The Southeast Missourian wedding file, waiting to be published, and it may be there for a long while.

On Sept. 14, Susie came into the Missourian newsroom, all smiles, bringing in her engagement picture and announcement. Later that day, she was severely burned in a fire at Dongola, Mo., where she was helping to prepare a house that she and her future husband, Richard Van Gennip, were to occupy.

Working with Susie, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller of Kelso, were Mrs. Elmer Van Gennip, Richard's mother; Mrs. Joseph VanGennip, and Tammy VanGennip, all of Lutesville. According to reports, propane gas fumes exploded in the house, causing the fire.

Susie and Richard's wedding was to have taken place at St. Augustine Catholic Church in Kelso this Saturday. Instead, the Men's Club at the church is holding a benefit dance for Susie Saturday night to help with hospital costs.

"This dance is just one of the helpful things our friends and relatives have done for us since Susie was burned," Mrs. Miller said today from her home in Kelso. Other organizations are also planning benefits. Mrs. Miller has remained in St. Louis with Susie most of the time since the accident only returned home this week, because her husband could stay with Susie during his vacation.

A trust fund has been set up at the Scott City Bank for anyone wanting to give financial aid to Susie.

The Millers have five sons at home, but Mrs. Miller said she felt that it had been necessary for her to stay with her daughter. Our parents and friends have seen about the boys," she said.

"The doctors tell us the most important thing now is to keep Susie's attitude good, and it is. She is in very good spirits. Richard, her fiancee, goes to St. Louis every weekend, when he gets off from work on Friday afternoon, and stays until Sunday night. This has meant the most to her, I feel, and she is very positive about their marriage plans."

Susie's condition is listed this week at the hospital as "poor." Earlier, she was listed as critical. "She has had two skin grafts and is improving very slowly" Mrs. Miller stated.

Mrs. Joseph Van Gennip, the oldest victim, is still reported to be in poor to critical condition. Tammy, the 4-year-old is improving the fastest, and is generally listed as "poor to fair," which, Mrs. Miller said, is encouraging.

"It is still unreal to me," Mrs. Miller said. "I mean, she was so happy that morning, and by afternoon, we weren't sure if she would live. It really tears a hole in your life."

BOOK REVIEW

THE INVESTIGATION. By Dorothy Uhnak. Simon & Schuster. 345 Pages. $9.95.

When it comes to writing about policemen and how they do their jobs, Dorothy Uhnak ranks right up among the very best.

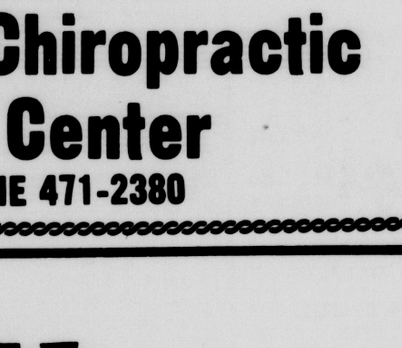

Once a New York City cop herself, the author gave a major show of her writing talent and special knowledge in the powerful novel "Law and Order." Now she does even better than that in "The Investigation."

The novel deals with the deaths of two very young brothers. They have been murdered. They are the sons of Kitty Keller, a beautiful New York City housewife with a secret life. Not long after the bodies of the dead boys are found in a vacant lot, the police decide the boys were slain by their mother.

But one detective isn't quite so sure that the case is as simple as all that. He's Joe Peters. Despite repeated hints from higher-ups that he should keep his views to himself, Joe decides to conduct an independent investigation to determine if Kitty did kill the boys and if she didn't to find out who did. His hunt takes him into some rather sordid sections of society as well as into the world of the very rich.

As the investigation goes on, the reader is presented with such an array of conflicting evidence that it is impossible to judge whether Kitty is guilty or innocent.

Richard, her fiancee, goes to St. Louis every weekend, when he gets off from work on Friday afternoon, and stays until Sunday night. This has meant the most to her, I feel, and she is very positive about their marriage plans."

Susie's condition is listed this week at the hospital as "poor." Earlier, she was listed as critical. "She has had two skin grafts and is improving very slowly" Mrs. Miller stated.

Mrs. Joseph Van Gennip, the oldest victim, is still reported to be in poor to critical condition. Tammy, the 4-year-old is improving the fastest, and is generally listed as "poor to fair," which, Mrs. Miller said, is encouraging.

"It is still unreal to me," Mrs. Miller said. "I mean, she was so happy that morning, and by afternoon, we weren't sure if she would live. It really tears a hole in your life."

BOOK REVIEW

THE INVESTIGATION. By Dorothy Uhnak. Simon & Schuster. 345 Pages. $9.95.

When it comes to writing about policemen and how they do their jobs, Dorothy Uhnak ranks right up among the very best.

Once a New York City cop herself, the author gave a major show of her writing talent and special knowledge in the powerful novel "Law and Order." Now she does even better than that in "The Investigation."

The novel deals with the deaths of two very young brothers. They have been murdered. They are the sons of Kitty Keller, a beautiful New York City housewife with a secret life. Not long after the bodies of the dead boys are found in a vacant lot, the police decide the boys were slain by their mother.

But one detective isn't quite so sure that the case is as simple as all that. He's Joe Peters. Despite repeated hints from higher-ups that he should keep his views to himself, Joe decides to conduct an independent investigation to determine if Kitty did kill the boys and if she didn't to find out who did. His hunt takes him into some rather sordid sections of society as well as into the world of the very rich.

As the investigation goes on, the reader is presented with such an array of conflicting evidence that it is impossible to judge whether Kitty is guilty or innocent.

SeMo Homecoming activities scheduled to start Oct. 24

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Homecoming may be a highlight of the year for South East Missouri State University students, but for university alumni it's also an exciting time, too.

SEMO's Homecoming is officially set for Oct. 29, but students have expanded the occasion into a week-long extravaganza. A large number of motel rooms have already booked here by alumni, and numerous private parties are planned by former students who look forward to the event as a time to visit both the campus and old school friends.

The Homecoming observance will get under way Oct. 24 with a full-length movie, and on Oct. 25 there will be a bluegrass concert, followed with a program by a nationally-known illusionist on Oct. 26.

Eleven young men and women are trying for the title of Homecoming Queen and Man of the Year. The queen will be crowned Oct. 27. There will be a pep rally Oct. 28, and a post-game dance on Oct. 29.

Alumni activities begin Oct. 28, continuing on the 29.

The first major Homecom- event will be the annual parade. It begins at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 29, moving east from Capaha Park down Broadway. Numerous area bands are featured, along with more than a dozen floats.

"Life on the Mississippi" will be the parade theme, and the traditional Alumni Luncheon, "Riverboat Special," will be at 11:30 a.m. Oct. 29 in University Center.

The Homecoming gridiron contest will pit SeMo's Indians against the Northeast Missouri State University Bulldogs at 1:30 p.m. in Houck Stadium. A hospitality hour for alumni will follow from 4 to 6 p.m. at Port Cape Girardeau.

Balloting to choose this year's queen and Man of the Year will be on Oct. 25. The pair will represent SeMo at various functions both on and off-campus during the remainder of the academic year.

Finalists were chosen by a special panel which used a point system and personal interviews to evaluate nominees.

Queen candidates are: Becki Baker, Arnold, a senior majoring in elementary education; Beverly Ponder, Bridgeton, a senior majoring in elementary education; Jill Upchurch, Columbia, a junior majoring in biology; Wendy Krah, Florissant, a senior majoring in marketing.

Barb Sheltman, Kimmswick, a senior majoring in social work; Cindy Ackley, Perryville, a junior music major, Marie King, Scott City, a junior majoring in social work; Nancy Mueth and Cindy Steffens, both of St. Louis and speech and speech pathology majors, respectively; Mary Gagenpain, St. Louis, a senior interdisciplinary studies major, and Jane Joggerst, Ste Genevieve, a senior speech pathology major.

Competing for Man of the Year will be Bill Brengle, Berkely; Glen Hinkebein, Chaffee; Steve Schneider, Dexter; Dave Joliff, Florissant; Kim Winter, Imperial, Tom Burke, Jackson; Colvin Hawkins, Portageville; Mike Kaiser, Sappington, and Mark Aubuchon and Mike Smith, both of St. Louis.

Alumni Merit Awards will be presented to Mrs. Lilly Brucher Gehrs and Mrs. Jean Bell Mosley, both of Cape Girardeau, and John Candler Slagel, Tucson, Ariz., at a dinner Oct. 28.

The official opening of "Missouri Mills," an art exhibit by Jake Wells, associate professor of art, will follow the dinner. Mr. Wells is best known for his work on the large mural in Kent Library depicting the history and heritage of southeast Missouri.

On exhibit will be paintings of 27 water mills throughout the state. The exhibit grew out of an interest in water mills which began when Mr. Wells was a child. It will be housed in University Museum.

Alumni at the luncheon on Oct. 29 will ratify a revised Alumni Association constitution and will elect new officers. C.Nolen Miller of Arnold, a retired school administrator and current association vice president, has been nominated for president.

Vice presidential nominee is Barbara Lohr of Jackson. Mrs. Jane Stacy, director of alumni services at SEMO, is renominated for the position of secretary.

Classes of 1967, 1952 and 1927 will be honored at the luncheon.

Also scheduled for Oct. 29 is a breakfast for all former members of Cardinal Key, men's honor society, at 8 a.m. in University Center. At 8:30 a.m. that day, former members of Wakapa, women's honorary, will have a reunion, also at the University Center.

At 7 p.m. Oct. 29, the annual gathering for the 1937 football team, which won the conference championship, will be held.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — "Featherfoot" is a program sponsored by a manufacturer here to remind the drivers of its 500 company vehicles to avoid jack rabbit starts, to reduce time spent with auto engines idling, to drive at steady speeds and to keep the engine tuned.

These suggestions have saved $724,000-worth of gasoline for Honeywell in the past year and increased the fleet's average mileage by 2.5 miles per gallon — for a 20 percent improvement.

Scott City and Illmo to work for drainage grant

SCOTT CITY -- The City Council Monday night agreed to work with Illmo in a cooperative effort to obtain a grant through the U.S. Soil Conservation Service to widen the drainage system in both cities.

Mayor Alvie Modglin was to meet today with a Soil Conservatin Service agent to discuss whether the project would qualify for the federal grant.

The complete ditch-widening project would cost about $150,000, the mayor said.

The City Council also agreed to explore the possibility of building a bridge on old Highway 61 across Ramsey Creek on the north edge of the city.

Mayor Modglin told the council that the State Highway Department advised him such a bridge would cost the city $144,000, if it were 24 by 200 feet. the mayor said he was informed the state probably would not fund such a project.

The council is to request an appearance by a representative of the highway department at its next meeting to discuss the bridge.

Mayor Modglin previously brought the issue of a new bridge on old Highway 61 before the Scott County Court Oct. 3. The reopening of the old route, between Scott City and Nash Road, which would necessitate building a bridge, would help ease traffic backups at the I-55 exit to Scott City, the mayor contended.

Traffic has backed up on I-55 at the Route M off ramp and is reaching a dangerous point, Mayor Modglin said. "A new bridge is almost getting to be a necessity," he commented Monday.

With a new bridge, southbound traffic into Scott City could use the alternative route, he said.
